Tunney on Shakespeare Another Flood? Maybe In Any Case, Thanks Speed Championship

—By Arthur Brisbane—

Copyright, 1928, by Star Co.

GENE TUNNEY, world champion, told the Yale boys about Shakespeare yesterday, invited by Prof. Phelps.

Tunney wondered "whether Shakespeare would be a boxing fan." Probably not. But he described real fighting, without a purse, better than anybody.

"Imitate the action of the tiger;
Stiffen the sinews, summon up
The blood,
Disguise fair nature with hard-favour'd rage,
Then lend the eye a terrible aspect;
Let it pry through the portage of the head,
Like the brass cannon; let the brow o'erwhelm it,
Now set the teeth, and stretch the nostril wide;
Hold hard the breath, and bend up every spirit
To his full height."

Dempsey used to do all that, and more.

Flood waters of the White river have overswept levees, sweeping through five counties in Arkansas. In Mississippi the Tombigbee and the Luxapalila rivers are nearing the danger stage. More rain before Wednesday would mean serious danger.

Perhaps the Government will decide that $750,000,000 invested in flood control would be cheaper than another flood.

Mr. W. S. Gifford, president of the American Telegraph & Telephone Company, will spend two thousand million dollars on new construction in the next five years. Uncle Sam is rich enough to spend one-third that amount to save crops and lives of his nephews in the Mississippi valley.

Senator Heflin says, "Calvin Coolidge was elected by the Catholics." Mr. Coolidge, says he, in return for the Catholic vote, "agreed to interfere in Mexico and Nicaragua, and save them for the Roman church."

If the Catholics did elect Calvin Coolidge, Americans, including the Protestants, are much obliged to them. It was a successful election.

This country again holds the automobile speed championship. Yesterday Ray Keech, going 207.55 miles an hour, took the record from Captain Campbell, British.

Frank Lockhart, who recently shot into the ocean with his "Black Hawk" Stutz, is tuning up to beat Keech.

While such speed is not useful in real life, it does, as Mr. Moskovics says, compel the building of better machines.

On the second day's celebration of Rome's birthday, yesterday, Mussolini gave a sabre fencing exhibition with an army officer. His health and heart must be sound, for he kept up the savage fencing for a quarter of an hour. Three thousand five hundred musicians, led by Mascagni, of "Cavalleria Rusticana," played the war "Hymn of the Piva." When Mussolini celebrates a birthday he really celebrates it.

A woman about 50 could not remember her name or address. Doctors will investigate. We all sympathize, forgetting that a hundred years hence nobody now living will remember his name or address in all probability We may not even remember the name of the planet on which we formerly lived. We can't remember the names or addresses we had before we came here.

Nicholas M. Schenck, president of Loew's Theaters, wisely bars the picture "Dawn" from all those theaters. A picture calculated to revive and intensify international hatreds should not be shown here. There are better ways of making money.

Prime Minister Poincare comes out ahead in Sunday's French election. "Reds" are routed and Poincare will have a majority in the Chamber of Deputies sufficient to carry through his financial rehabilitation plans.

The French are a practical people.

Jeremiah Milbank has given $250,000 to study and fight infantile paralysis Able scientists will spend the money

The Rockefeller institute, with millions at its disposal, has long been fighting infantile paralysis and other diseases of children and adults.

SEE MURDER IN POISON WINE DEATH OF MOTHER OF TWO IN NORTH END

Cyanide of potassium, delivered to her in the guise of wine with murderous intent, caused the death of Mrs. Santa Zona of Sheafe st., West End, mother of two little girls, police declared today.

The official report that this poison caused the woman's death was made to the police today by Medical Examiner George Burgess Magrath, following his autopsy.

SWEEP FOR HOOVER IN 1ST PRIMARY RETURNS

West Tisbury, Mass., April 24 (AP)—The first town to report its complete vote at the Massachusetts presidential primary today expressed its preference overwhelmingly in favor of Herbert Hoover for President.

Exercising for the first time the privilege available under a new State law of writing in on the ballot the name of their favorite candidate 15 West Tisbury voters went on record in favor of Hoover, while three expressed a preference for Charles G. Dawes. The name of Calvin Coolidge did not appear on a single ballot.

STANDARD OIL MAN GOT MISSING 'SLUSH' BONDS

Washington, April 24 (AP)—Finally relenting in his determination to defy the Senate Teapot Dome committee, Robert W. Stewart, chairman of Standard Oil of Indiana, testified today that he received a total of $759,500 in bonds from H. S. Osler, president of the Continental Trading Company, but that the money was not used by him personally.

Instead, Stewart said, a trust fund, with Roy J. Barnett, Standard Oil tax expert in charge, was created for the Sinclair Crude Oil Purchasing Company and the Standard Oil Company of Indiana, each to receive one-half of the securities. Last Saturday, however, Stewart said, the directors of his company were consulted and it was decided the fund should be turned over to the Sinclair

David A. Webster, brother of the man who paid the attorney-general the $25,000 Decimo retainer, gave the testimony under questioning by committee members.

"I went to Mr. Reading this morning and asked him if he was counsel at the present moment and he said he was," Webster told the committee.

'VIKING OF CLOUDS' OFF ON MERCY HOP IN SPEEDY ARMY PLANE

Curtiss Field, N. Y, April 24 (AP)—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, the Lone Eagle of the Atlantic, took the air today to fly as he never flew before in a race to save the life of a fellow airman, Floyd Bennett.

Lindbergh hopped off at 3:08 P. M., carrying anti-pneumonia serum needed by doctors tending the north pole flier in Quebec, where he was taken after being stricken with pneumonia while commanding a relief expedition to the marooned transatlantic fliers on Greenly Island.

It was learned that a request had come from Quebec to the Rockefeller Foundation in New York for the serum and the Rockefeller organization appealed to the Guggenheim fund for the promotion of aeronautics to get them quick transportation.

"SURE"! SAYS LINDY

Harry Guggenheim, president of the fund, immediately asked Lindbergh if he would fly with the serum to Canada.

"Sure I will. Let's go," Lindbergh replied and a rush was made for an automobile.

Guggenheim and Lindbergh left New York for the flying field shortly before 2 o'clock, with motorcycle police clearing the way.

While mechanics were warming up Lindbergh's monoplane so that it would be ready to fly when he arrived, Maj. John N.

Girl Smoker Sets Bed on Fire in Back Bay Suite

Smoking in bed, according to the police, started a fire today which resulted in severe burns for the smoker, Miss Alice McBurney, occupant of a first floor suite on Massachusetts ave.

The girl was taken to City Hospital, where doctors found she had secondary burns.

The bed clothing caught fire and spread to the floor and walls, causing damage estimated at $100.

SNOW TIES UP BREMEN

Lake Ste. Agnes, Que., April 24 (By the Canadian Press)—A report received by the Canadian transcontinental airways here this morning said that the Bremen and the Ford relief plane were stormbound at Greenly Island.

The message received by Robert Cannon of the company said that snow was falling and a strong northeast wind blowing at the tiny island where the transatlantic plane made a forced landing ten days ago.

The Bremen was said to have been put in readiness for continuing its flight to New York with the parts carried to Greenly Island yesterday by the Ford plane.

Bremen Ready to Start When Weather Is Clear

Dispatches from Greenly Island today indicated that the transatlantic plane Bremen might be delayed in its hopoff for New York.

According to the dispatches, repairs have been completed on the plane but the expectations of departing the tiny island today are marred by a snowstorm and a gale sweeping across the German-Irish fliers' haven.

Baron von Huenefeld had said he hoped to hop off as soon as repairs were finished on the big Junkers monoplane.

If the plane starts today the fliers plan to arrive at Mitchel Field, N.

HEAVY SNOW IN MAINE AS BOSTON WARMS UP

While the weather was clearing in Boston and the temperature warming, Maine today was in the grip of a snowstorm that laid a blanket 9 inches deep in Lewiston, with the snow still falling.

The storm swept over Maine in the teeth of a northeaster, but the temperature was high enough to turn a considerable portion into slush.

Today's surprise storm deposited one-third of the total accumulation (after April 23) in the last 45 years. In all that time the total snowfall after April 23, until today, was 10.55 inches. And of this total, 3.5 inches fell April 24, 1906.

Three and a half inches fell today in Portland, 6 inches in Caribou and 3 inches at Houlton.

Boston's own storm moved out today to the northeast and clearing weather is promised tonight.

Since Saturday night, when the first disturbance hit New England, nearly 2½ inches of rain have fallen hereabouts, while the temperature remained stagnant over the same period around a mark of less than 50 above.

There was a light snowfall in Boston early this morning.

Piloted Relief Plane to Greenly — Being Equipped With Skis — 'Fitz' Looks Over Propeller

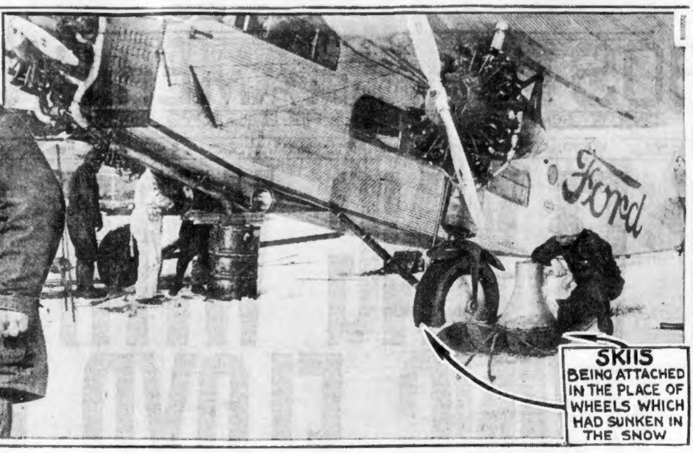
MAJOR FITZMAURICE BERNT BALCHEN

GET WARM WELCOME ON ISLAND
The Ford relief plane which carried fuel and spare parts to the stranded Atlantic fliers was piloted from Murray Bay to Greenly by Bernt Balchen and Major Fitzmaurice.



EQUIPPING PLANE FOR SERVICE IN ICE AND SNOW
Mechanics at Murray Bay, Que., can be seen preparing the Ford relief plane for its flight to Greenly Island, which it made in fast time, and skis had to be fitted to enable the plane to take off on the ice and snow. In addition to a new propeller, spare parts and fuel the relief plane also carried food.

TAKES AID TO HIS COMPANIONS
Major James A. Fitzmaurice made certain they had all the necessary equipment before the Ford plane headed for Greenly Island. "Fitz" is a great favorite with the aviators.

BREMEN CREW STORMBOUND ON SNOW-SWEPT GREENLY

Y., late tomorrow night or early Thursday. One stop will be made on the way, the fliers planning to spend tonight at Lake St. Agnes.

Twenty or more natives stood ready to furnish the man-power necessary to push the Bremen on to

Islanders and natives had assembled, prepared to say farewell to the fliers, and bid them godspeed on their flight into Canada, and thence to New York city.

Under the eyes of Baron Ehrenfried von Huenefeld and Capt. Hermann Koehl, the work of repairing the Bremen and installing the spare parts carried by the Ford relief plane was rushed through the night hours. Shortly before dawn everything was declared in readiness for the hopoff for Lake St. Agnes, near Murray Bay, Que.

Jubilant at the coming of the Ford plane, piloted by Bernt Balchen and bringing back to Greenly Island Maj. James Fitzmaurice, Irish ace, the two German aviators worked as hard as did the newcomers, and Dr. Louis Cuisinier and his mechanic, Thibault. They were aided by islanders and natives from the Labrador mainland.

A ramp had been prepared for taking the Bremen from her 20-foot elevation down to the smooth ice of the lake on the island.

"The repairs are entirely satisfactory," the Baron declared as he looked the plane over. His word was taken as indicating he was wholly pleased with the repaired craft, and that he would take off as he had planned.

The plan calls for a stop at Lake St. Agnes, where a gasoline supply has been stored awaiting the Bremen. This is a special gas for the Junkers plane, and is known as benzol. The plan was to spend tonight at Lake St. Agnes, to be followed by a start early tomorrow for the last leg—the flight to New York city.

The plan was to circle the air over the city of Quebec, as a signal of the appreciation by the fliers of all that the Canadian government and people have done for them during their enforced stay at Greenly Island.

At Quebec also is Floyd Bennett, stricken ill at Lake St. Agnes after his flight to that place in the Ford qlane Bennett's condition was reported critical today. Commdr. Richard E. Byrd, who left Boston on the fast train Red Wing, was due in Quebec city today.

It is possible the Bremen will drop a message to Bennett as the transatlantic fliers pass over Quebec.

The tri-motored Ford plane, making a quick flight from Seven Islands, Que., to Greenly Island, carried in addition to spare parts for the Bremen, foods and other things for the two Germans. There was a change of clothing for both the baron and Capt. Koehl. Also, there was wine and beer, and roast beef and fresh vegetables, a welcome change of fare from the corned beef and pork which has been the diet on Greenly Island.

Official announcement was made today that clearance papers had been prepared by the Vermont customs authorities for the Bremen. These documents will be given the fliers in Canada.

Miss Herta Junkers, daughter of the builder of the Bremen, is in Quebec City, whither she went to offer assistance to doctors and nurses battling to save the life of Floyd Bennett.

A new arrival at Lake St. Agnes is Clarence Chamberlin, transatlantic flier, who will escort the Bremen on the hop to New York City. Chamberlin stated that he was deeply appreciative of the fine reception given him and Charles Levine, by the Germans when the plane Columbia landed in Germany last summer.

With Chamberlin from Hartford Ct., flew to Lake St. Agnes Capt. Carl A. D. Dixon and five passengers.

From East Boston airport the Fairchild monoplane piloted by Capt Albert Edson, was expected to take off today for Lake St. Agnes.

The Edson plane expects to accompany the Bremen to New York City.

Another bracelet, this one valued at $500, was recovered today by South Boston police as part of the $50,000 in jewelry stolen with a salesman's trunk at the Trinity station a week ago. The bracelet was turned over to police by Thomas Hellen of West Second st., South Boston, who said he found it near the army base, where $20,000 worth of the loot was found.

STEWART GOT $759,500 OF OIL BONDS

Purchasing Company, in which the Standard has a large interest.

Stewart was pressed hard by the committee after his initial statements, Senator Walsh offering Treasury witnesses to show some of the Continental bond coupons were in his account in a Chicago bank. Stewart would not admit this had been proved.

IS UNDER INDICTMENT

The witness agreed that the bond transaction between himself and Osler was not of the "usual" kind.

On several occasions, he said, Osler had given him securities, which finally totalled the amount he mentioned. This was done, Stewart declared, despite the fact he told Osler he did not want to share in Continental profits.

The Continental was formed to buy oil from the Humphreys interests of Denver for $1.50 a barrel. It sold the oil to Sinclair and Stewart companies for $1.75. Stewart, Harry F. Sinclair, H. B. Blackmer and James E. O'Neil were mentioned as guarantors of the Continental's contract. Blackmer and O'Neil are in Europe and have refused to return to testify in the oil cases.

Stewart is under indictment for refusing to answer committee questions on a former occasion. Senator Walsh, Democrat, Montana, said the oil man had purged himself of contempt so far as the Senate was concerned, but that the indictment still stood.

At the end of his testimony, Stewart insisted on replying to the queries which he had turned a deaf ear to on the former occasion. He could not recall ever having discussed the transactions with Sinclair and knew nothing about the bonds except those about which he had testified.

"I have never had those bonds in my possession," Stewart said. "I assume they must have been connected with the Continental Trading Company."

Stewart said he took no receipts from Barnett for the bonds.

"Understand, Senator, I did not have possession of the bonds. I was simply a conduit through which these bonds passed to the trustee."

Senator Bratton, Democrat, N. M., took over the questioning.

"Why were no coupons clipped after December, 1923?" he asked.

"To avoid publicity. The newspapers were carrying a lot about this matter."

Stewart said he requested Barnett not to clip the coupons after 1923. That was about the time the Teapot Dome scandal was beginning to be developed by the committee.

"If this was a regular business transaction why did you want to avoid publicity?" he was asked. "I don't know Senator. I may have made a mistake; I don't know."

"I notice this trust agreement was written by pencil, why didn't you dictate it to a stenographer and have it written on a typewriter?"

"Because I didn't want a stenographer to know anything about it."

He Stows His Rum in Davy Jones' Locker and Flees to Port

"Any port in a storm."

Tossing his whiskey cargo overboard, according to his own statement to U. S. customs officials, Capt. Norman Conrad of the former lobster smack Fannie Powell, II, sailed into Boston rather than ride out the gale.

He gave the authorities a knotty problem to untangle, but temporarily they placed a guard on the vessel which is tied up at T wharf.

His act, in jettisoning his cargo of 800 bags of Scotch whiskey, may mean the saving of his vessel from seizure by the Government. Had he arrived in a United States port with the cargo, it might have been a different story. His sailing papers called for a voyage from St. Pierre to Nassau.

SKYLAND GREETS ITS OWN

LINDY FLIES TO CANADA WITH SERUM FOR BENNETT

Reynolds, commadant of Mitchel Field, sent a hurry request to Washington to let Lindbergh use an army observation plane, so that he could make more speed on his errand of mercy, so that he could make more speed on his errand of mercy.

The observation plane would allow a speed of about 145 miles an hour as against approximately 100 in the Ryan plane.

Nassau County motorcycle police were rushed to the county line to pick up the Guggenheim car and speed it on its way to the field.

Lindbergh arrived at the field with Guggenheim at 2:25 p. m. and made a dash for his plane. He was told, however, that the Rockefeller man with the serum had not yet arrived.

A previous announcement had reported that the serum was waiting at the field for Lindbergh.

As Lindbergh was waiting, Capt. W. P. Hayes, U. S. A., landed from Mitchel field with an army Curtiss Falcon, which he said officials in Washington had authorized Lindbergh to use.

Lindbergh decided to use the army plane instead of his own as the Falcon has a cruising speed of 148 miles an hour.

WAIT MAN WITH SERUM

There was a feeling of intense excitement among the knot of nervous people at the field as Lindbergh strode nervously up and down, waiting for the man with the serum.

In the plane with Lindbergh, besides the serum, were three white mice in glass jars. Thomas Applegate, the Rockefeller messenger, who brought the serum to the field, said the mice were for use in connection with the use of the serum for Bennett, but did not know exactly their purpose.

Lindbergh said he figured the distance as roughly 500 miles airline and he expected to reach Quebec about 7 o'clock this evening. Although the army plane he used has a maximum speed of 150 miles an hour, he said he expected to average only 120 because of cross and head winds.

Lindy to Run Into Storm When in Quebec

Montreal, April 24 (Canadian Press)—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh will run into a snowstorm as he reaches the Province of Quebec on his air race to the bedside of Floyd Bennett with anti-pneumonia serum.

Sherbrooke, in the direct airline between New York and Quebec, reports soft wet snow with a northeasterly wind, which will be a head wind for Lindbergh. The same conditions prevailed in Montreal and Quebec.

Doctors Battle to Save Life of Floyd Bennett

Quebec, Que., April 24 (AP)—Floyd Bennett, who contracted double pneumonia while on a relief flight to the disabled Bremen, was "resting somewhat more comfortably, but very low" this morning.

This bulletin was issued at the Jeffrey Hale Hospital where both Mr. and Mrs. Bennett are patients.

Mrs. Bennett, who disregarded the advice of physicians, to join her husband, was reported much improved from the acute tonsilitis from which she is suffering.

The text of the official bulletin issued by Dr. A. L. Barach and Dr. W. H. Delaney follows: "Floyd Bennett has passed a fairly good night, better than any since he came to the hospital, and is, if anything, a slight shade better, but his condition is still considered serious.

POISONED WINE KILLS MOTHER

TAKES FATAL TASTE

The mother sampled it with a single swallow, after remarking that it was wine left by somebody. She screamed, ran for a drink of water and fell dead as she was lifting the glass to her lips.

The motive of the person who left the bottle at the door is a mystery. The little girl's story, adhered to after many hours of questioning, absolves the mother of the suspicion of suicide, police said.

TRACE POISON

The theory of the authorities is that she was in the habit of having a man leave liquor at her door, that for some reason he was bitterly angry with her and obtained the poison with murderous design.

The first efforts of the police were directed to finding the drug store or other place where such a large amount of the poison was obtained, there being enough in the bottle to kill half-a-dozen families, according to the investigators.

ELEO FIT FOR WORK AFTER 74-MILE HIKE

NOW, OUT OF MY WAY!

MISS SEARS FINISHES 74-MILE WALK

Miss Eleonora Sears, noted society sportswoman, ending her hike from Newport, R. I., to Boston. She did the 74 miles in 17 hours and 15 minutes, considered a splendid feat.

BOSTON AMERICAN
A HOME PAPER FOR PEOPLE WHO THINK
BOSTON, TUESDAY, APRIL 24, 1928

UP EARLY TO GET STARTED ON A BUSY DAY

While folks who just did an ordinary day's work were yawning and hating to get up today, Eleonora Sears, who walked 74 miles yesterday in 17 hours 15 minutes, was up, breakfasting and ready for a busy day.

Instead of "sleeping in," she started out soon after breakfast on a round of engagements that will keep her busy the greater part of the 48 hours before she sails for Europe Thursday.

With some trepidation, fearing she was sound asleep a reporter phoned the "amazing Eleo" of Boston society and sports at her home, 122 Beacon st. True to her nickname she amazed by answering the phone herself.

"Miss Sears?"

"Who's calling?"

"The Boston American."

"Oh, yes, right here."

FEELING FINE.

"I'm calling to see how you're feeling after that Newport-to-Boston hike and how you're spending the day."

"Why, I'm feeling fine."

"Well, it's a good day to rest."

"Rest? Nothing. I just finished dressing to go out when the phone rang. I've got plenty of things to do."

"What are they? Any golf today?"

"Say, how can I play golf on a day like this?"

"Well, I can certainly say you're up early and going to be busy."

"Yes, I was up early. Why not? I had breakfast at 8 and I'm going out just as soon as I can hang up this receiver."

"I'd like to know what you call a busy day."

OFF FOR EUROPE THURSDAY.

"I've many things to do, shopping, appointments with costumers, many social engagements, luncheons, teas and so on. I'm leaving for Europe Thursday and you know what a last-minute rush that means. I'll be busy about all the time from now until Thursday."

"So you're going abroad. Walking?"

"Sure, when they build a bridge."

"Well, many thanks, this gives us a brand new story about you."

"Oh, you newspapers."

"Well, you can't deny that hike of yours was interesting stuff."

"It was great fun, that's all I know about it. Good-bye, now. Call again."

COLLAPSE DROVE GIRL AWAY

The mystery surrounding the disappearance of Miss Marjorie Anderson, pretty 23-year-old Waltham school teacher, was dispelled today when Mrs. Edna Erret, with whom the girl lives on Harvard st., Newtonville, announced that the girl has been overworked and has suffered a nervous breakdown.

For this reason, Mrs. Erret said, Miss Anderson had sought rest in a nearby town and went there without notifying her friends.

Last night she went to the home of another Waltham school-teacher, Miss Grace Church, in Walker st., Newtonville, and after spending the night there returned to Harvard st. today.

The girl disappeared last Saturday morning after taking an examination at the Massachusetts Normal Art School, Exeter and Newbury sts., Back Bay. When she failed to reappear yesterday afternoon friends notified the Newton police and it was while officers were searching for her that she appeared at Miss Church's home.

'ADOPTED' DAUGHTER FLAYS MOTHER IN $30,000 FIGHT

SAYS SHE 'WAS FOOLED' UNTIL SHE MARRIED

Taking the witness stand in her own behalf, Mrs. Sophia Pillsbury Linten of Roxbury fought her own battle today in Middlesex Probate Court for the $30,000 estate of Samuel L. Pillsbury, who she claims abandoned her when she was born only to adopt her a year later.

In quiet tones she told of a "very cold" mother whom, she thought, might indeed have been the kind of a woman who would have participated in the crime of abandonment.

TOLD OF ADOPTION

Mrs. Linten submitted to long cross-examination by attorneys for the Pillsbury estate seeking to disprove her claim of being the flesh-and-blood child of Pillsbury. As his "adopted" daughter she has no claim to the money.

She declared that until after her mother died and she herself was married, she thought herself the real daughter of the Pillsburys. Then she was told she was only "adopted."

Years afterward, in looking through a desk, she found a "confession," in which Samuel L. Pillsbury is alleged to have told the story of abandonment and readoption.

CHARGES FRAUD

Opening the estate's side of the case, Atty. Albert S. Howard declared that the "confession" was a fraud and part of a conspiracy to get the trust fund.

He added that "the Lintens tried to suck the income of Old Sam Pillsbury as they would suck an orange."

In a deposition read in court, Jay B. Crawford, before whom the confession was made, said that Pills-

HOLDS STUDENT IN ATTEMPT TO KILL FIVE

Fall River, April 24—Temporarily unbalanced by overstudy, Anthony Biello, 28, of Mt. Hope ave., claiming to be a former Boston University law student, attempted to kill his wife and four children with gas, police charged when he was arraigned in court today.

Biello is alleged to have loosened the cap on a gas pipe protruding from a wall in his home, allowing the gas to escape while his wife and the children, one an infant two weeks old, slept.

According to police, Biello admitted the act when arrested and said that if the plan had succeeded he intended to commit suicide.

Mrs. Biello and the children, the oldest only three years, were made ill by the fumes. Two other children, one four years old and the other five, were at their grandmother's home a few blocks away.

Biello said that after turning the gas loose he wandered around the streets for hours, finally coming back to the vicinity of his home, where police apprehended and questioned him, then placed him under arrest.

In court today the man pleaded not guilty to a charge of assault with intent to murder. He was held in $1000 until May 1, pending a mental examination.

WALTHAM HIGH BOY FOUND 'ON THE JOB'

Fifteen-year-old Gilbert Peterson, Waltham High School student who disappeared more than a week ago, was found today working in a store at Hartford, Ct.

According to Hartford police, who searched for him after the boy's schoolbooks were found in that city, young Peterson told them he had received a poor report card and was ashamed to take it home.

His parents live in Portsmouth, N. H., but the boy makes his home with relatives, Mr. and Mrs. John Anderson, in Sycamore st., Waltham. Gilbert will be brought back to Waltham and will be told to forget his poor card and try next time for a better one.

HUB FOLK RETURN FROM EUROPE ABOARD LINER ILE DE FRANCE, SAYS BETTY ALDEN

Jonniaux Portraits, to Be Shown in a Local Gallery, Excite Interest of Smart Set

CERTAIN BOSTONIANS OF DISTINCTION will come down the gangplank today when the Ile de France, that new and luxuriously appointed flagship, arrives at her New York dock from France. Mr. and Mrs. Walter R. Baylies of Commonwealth ave., with their younger daughter, Miss Ruth Baylies, are easily in this category of distinctive Bostonians. They are social leaders, they entertain lavishly, they are patrons of the arts and letters and are charming people personally. En passant, they are back in town again just in time to see themselves as they have recently been painted in oils by the Belgian artist, Alfred Jonniaux.

MR. BAYLIES IN THE FORMAL BLACK BROADCLOTH and immaculate fine linen of "after 6 o'clock," Mrs. Baylies in grand opera elaborateness of velvet gown and ravishing brocades, and Miss Baylies in modish simplicity form an interesting trio of portraits on which Bostonians may gaze. The Jonniaux portraits are to be shown at the Doll and Richards gallery through May 8. Society will be marvelously interested in the Belgian's work, since the George Saltonstall Mumfords as well as the Walter Baylies family have been transferred to everlasting oils and are hung along with the former for all to see.

THE ALEXANDER STEINERTS OF COMMONWEALTH AVE. are incoming passengers on the flagship aforementioned, home again after a long and interesting tour that included Egypt and all those attractions Society's newest place in the sun offers to the globe trotter ever avid for sights and places that are little known and different. The Steinerts included in their itinerary a stay with the younger Alexander Steinerts, who make their home in Paris, where the musically gifted Mr. Steinert finds full scope for his artistic metier.

RUTH BAYLIES
Returns today with her parents from a European tour.

OF NEW ENGLAND, THOUGH not of Boston strictly speaking, are Mr. and Mrs. Anastase Vousiatsky, interesting people on the passenger list of the Ile de France. They make their home down in Connecticut, in that lovely rolling hill country found in the northern portion of that state.

THE STEAMSHIP FRANCE left New York a day or two ago with a passenger list of Bostonian flavor. Mr. and Mrs. John H. Ross of Forest Hills and Crow Point, in Hingham, are sailing away for a foreign journey of some weeks.

DOING THE GRAND TOUR, and girdling the world ever westward via the steamship Belgenland, Miss Grace Caswell of Boston and Keene has by now arrived in the Mediterranean and will see Europe by independent tour in motor and airplane. She and a friend debark at Naples and will do Italy thoroughly by motor, go on for a stay in Paris, cross to London by "airways" and sail for home later on the Homeric. For the summer, or the latter portion of it, Miss Caswell will probably be at her cottage on the Maine coast, in Casco Bay.

Miss Dana Sieveling's Pupils to Dance at Brattle Hall

CAMBRIDGE'S OLD AND REVERED "Brattle Hall" has in its time housed many an attraction, musical, dramatic or pictorial. But of them all none will be more pleasantly beheld and remembered than next Saturday afternoon's, when very youthful devotees of Terpsichore will cavort about. They, the dancers, are pupils in the graceful art under Miss Dana Sieveling's clever direction, and the affair is her annual dance recital. Designed as such performances are, the very special interest will be that of fond parents watching their offspring in various steps and postures.

PATRONESSES LEND DISTINCTION. Mrs. Charles Almy, Mrs. Langdon Frothingham, Mrs. Francis Stewart Kershaw, Mrs. Malcolm Lang, Mrs. Robert Treat Paine, 2d; Mrs. Joseph G. Thorp, Mrs. Prescott Evarts, Mrs. Curtis Curtin, Mrs. Joseph W. Courtney, Mrs. Gerald Boardman, Miss Alberta M. Houghton, Mrs. Eugene Tryon Redmond and Mrs. Horace Morison are of the score or so lending their names. Miss Miriam Winslow, who dances with a grace and abandon almost professional, will do some special numbers with Miss Sieveling. They dance charmingly and the numbers should be delightful.

FRIENDS OF THAT VETERAN of the steeplechase game, Bayard Tuckerman, are praying that he has no intention of emulating Britain's heir to the throne when it comes to coming croppers in the field. Great good luck must follow Mr. Tuckerman, in that his spills seem never to have serious consequences, and he's up and away usually before the gallery is breathing normally again. At Aqueduct, the Tuckerman horses and their gentleman rider never are with the "also rans." Mr. Tuckerman's ability with the reins and his steed's speed tell a very different story when the results are posted.

SO FAR AS THE SHOWING OF spring regalia goes, Aqueduct is almost a complete failure regarding feminine fine raiment. Smart warm tweeds, both cold and mist defying, the sort that our cousins across the pond wear with swank and manner, are the thing for Aqueduct racing days. The Boston contingent, distinctly of the Myopian flavor, included Mrs. Bayard Tuckerman, wearing one of her favorite brown ensembles that for a certain bleak day not only was delightfully comfortable but becoming also in its woolly warmth.

WAR ON CANCER IS OPENED

A state-wide war on cancer was under way today. The opening gun was fired at an impressive meeting in Symphony Hall, addressed by Governor Fuller, Mayor Nichols, Rev. Father George P. O'Conor, representing Cardinal O'Connell; Dr. William A. Evans of Chicago, and Dr. Richard C. Cabot of Harvard.

The public is asked to co-operate with the leaders in the war on the dread disease. There will be daily meetings throughout the State, in schools, hospitals, colleges and public halls. The crusade will continue through this week, and the chief effort will be to arouse the public to the peril, and to secure the public's assistance in the fight.

CORINTH DESTROYED BY 2 MORE QUAKES; 13 DIE

Athens, April 24 (AP)—The devastated city of Corinth was rocked by two more earth shocks this morning and Corinthians must seek homes elsewhere.

Four Greek ministers who went to the stricken district returned today and said they considered the city ruined beyond repair. This was the second time in 70 years that Corinth had been destroyed. The damage was estimated at $780,000. The death total was set at 13.

TWO MEN FLEE MYSTERY PLANE AFTER LANDING

Bridgeport, Ct., April 24 (AP)—A two-seater airplane made a forced landing at Greens Farm. The wings bore the number 5048. The propellor snapped off in the landing. Investigation showed the plane to have ample fuel in the gas tank and low visibility was given as the probable reason for the descent.

The two men in the plane ran off and hopped into a passing motor car without giving their names to the owner of the farm as he ran out to meet them.

DELAY MAY KILL BILL FOR GOLD STAR MOTHERS

By JAMES T. WILLIAMS, JR.,
Editor of Universal Service.

Washington, April 24—Gold Star mothers throughout the country will be distressed to hear that their bill is in jeopardy.

This is the bill introduced in the House last December by Representative Butler of Pennsylvania, chairman of the House Committee on Naval Affairs, to authorize a grateful government to send the mothers and unmarried widows of the deceased soldiers, sailors and marines of the American forces interred in the cemeteries of Europe on a pilgrimage to these cemeteries this year at the expense of the American people.

On behalf of the Committee on Military Affairs Representative Morin of Pennsylvania, its chairman, submitted the bill to the House last month with a favorable report. It passed without the formality of a roll call.

When it reached the Senate a few days latere and was referred to its Committee on Military Affairs, Senator Reed of Pennsylvania, the chairman, promptly turned it over to a sub-committee consisting of Senator Bingham of Connecticut, chairman, and Senators McMaster of South Dakota and Tyson of Tennessee.

FAILED TO ADVANCE.

Since that time Senator Bingham has failed to advance the measure. He has not reported it back to the full committee. He has not even indicated, when, if at all, he intends to hold a hearing on the bill.

Unless he takes more interest in its fate within the next fortnight than he has to date, the Gold Star mothers who have been looking to the opportunity before their earthly pilgrimage ends of seeing the places where their heroic dead are buried in a foreign land are doomed to disappointment.

Senators and Representatives in Congress who are eager to see this bill enacted into law are at a loss to explain the apparent indifference of Senator Bingham in regard to it. Equally in the dark are members of the Cabinet who have expressed themselves in favor of the measure. The fact that Senator Bingham enjoyed the privilege of serving overseas with the A. E. F. as a major in the Army Air Corps was hailed by the sponsors of this bill as an assurance that he would favor its prompt passage through the Senate.

SENATORS IN FAVOR

Those who have sounded senators on the subject say that the Senate awaits only an opportunity to get a vote on the bill to pass it as promptly as did the House. There is nothing complicated about the measure as it stands. There may be one or two perfecting amendments proposed, but these would facilitate and not obstruct the main purpose of the bill.

If Sen. Bingham persists in his refusal to report the measure favorably to the full committee, it is probable that the Gold Star mothers of Pennsylvania, supported by the veterans of that state, will appeal to Sen. Reed, the chairman of the committee on military affairs, to emancipate the bill from Sen. Bingham's custody and turn it over to some senator who believes that the first three billion dollar government in the history of the world not only can afford but ought to be authorized to send its Gold Star mothers on a pilgrimage to the graves of their dead across the Atlantic.

As Congress expects to adjourn between the first and the tenth of next June, prompt action must be taken on the Butler bill if it is to be saved from defeat in the congestion that invariably occurs in the closing days of the session.

SANDINO HOLDS 3 AMERICANS

Managua, Nicaragua, April 24 (AP)—American marines faced a hazardous task today in wresting from rebel Gen. Augustino Sandino two American gold mines he was believed to have seized with their staffs. Fear was expressed for the safety of the captured men.

W. J. Crampton, collector of customs of Puerto Cabezas, on the northeast coast, reported two mines near the headquarters of the Pis Pis river have been robbed by rebels. The belief that those were the La Luz y Los Angeles and Bonanza mines was strengthened by word from New York that La Luz y Los Angeles mine had been confiscated and three Americans, an Englishman and a Norwegian made prisoner.

PEGGY TUDOR SUES COUSIN OF ALFONSO

Los Angeles, April 24 (AP)—Peggy Tudor, New York actress, has reached the end of her romance with the Spanish nobleman, Alfonso de Figueroa y Bermejillo, son of the Duke of Tovar, a second cousin to the King of Spain.

Just four days ago the charming actress admitted that she was the wife of the Spanish monarch's second cousin and today she has a suit on file in Superior Court here asking for a divorce decree on grounds of cruelty.

The romance of the American actress and the youthful Spanish nobleman had its sitting in New York and Madrid and its apparent demise in Hollywood, where, before their separation, they had been occupying a cosey bungalow in a garden court.

They were secretly married in Ontario, Cal., last January 26.

The young scion of the Spanish ducal family was first attracted to Miss Tudor when they met at a party in New York. Some time later his interest in her ripened into love, when she journeyed to Madrid to dance before King Alfonso and Queen Eugenie by request.

In Madrid they decided to be married, and returned to America.

GROTON CASES MAY GO TO THE JURY TODAY

Final arguments were begun today in the so-called Groton graft cases at East Cambridge court, with indications they may go to the jury before night.

Edward Tierney, counsel for John H. Trayne, head of the street department, in beginning the closing arguments, declared no evidence had been introduced showing his client had participated in a conspiracy. He said the only charge to be considered was conspiracy and any other offenses had no bearing on the matter at issue.

Atty. Tierney bitterly assailed Edward L. Leavitt, former chief of police. He said when Leavitt was summarily discharged by Selectman Frank H. Torrey, also a defendant, he knew he would be investigated and probably prosecuted.

HOW LEAVITT GOT MONEY

To offset this, Leavitt, according to Atty. Tierney, went to Mrs. Boynton, wealthy resident of the town, obtained as much money as he needed, and then went to the district attorney.

"That is the only reason for this case," the lawyer said.

Atty. Daniel Needham, for John H. Cutler, also scored Leavitt. He said Cutler had paid a fine in Groton for bootlegging, but had never conspired with anyone. His request for a directed verdict of not guilty for Cutler was denied.

The first witness at today's session was the present chief of police, James N. Kane, who, under re-direct examination by defense counsel, said the record of the transfer of the truck which figured largely in the Torrey case was dated September 29, 1927. This evidence was introduced to prove that Torrey's deal with the town was legitimate.

SURPRISE WITNESS

The defense also attempted to offer evidence by Everett J. Cleary, night telephone operator at Groton, from whom former Chief of Police Edward L. Leavitt testified he had obtained $150. District Attorney Robert T. Bushnell objected to permitting Cleary's testimony to go in and his objection was sustained.

The government then introduced a surprise witness in rebuttal in the person of Mason Shattuck, Groton farmer and sawmill operator. Over the objection of defense counsel, he testified that Defendant Trayne had told him he could not work for the town unless one of Torrey's boys drove his truck, as Gus Moulton, Jr., his driver, was lazy.

Shattuck said he dropped his other work and drove the truck himself rather than permit one of the Torrey boys to do it. The witness, in response to questions, said Torrey's truck, which he leased to the town, was not capable of doing the same work as the other trucks. Similar testimony was given as to the Torrey truck by Edmund J. Fuller, a Groton garage man.

EX-BOSTON FORGER GETS 10 YEARS IN NEW YORK

New York, April 24 (AP)—Francis Swendeman, 36, who had previously been arrested in Boston and Providence, was sentenced to state prison for 10 years today after pleading guilty to attempting forgery. He was alleged to have indorsed checks stolen from letter boxes here.

Police records show that he was convicted of forgery in Boston in 1910, again convicted in Cambridge, Mass., 10 years later, and that in 1924 he forfeited $10,000 following his arrest in Providence.

MADDEN QUITS COOLIDGE ON FLOOD BILL

Washington, April 24 (AP)—Supporters of the Senate flood control bill prevailed in the House again today and over administration opposition adopted an amendment to provide that the federal Government assume the cost of acquiring flowage rights in the proposed spillway and floodway areas.

Washington, April 24 (AP)—Chairman Madden, one of the administration leaders, announced in the House today the withdrawal of his opposition to the Senate Jones flood control bill but it developed simultaneously that President Coolidge still objects to some features of the measure.

While the President approves the amendments adopted by the House yesterday, he still finds objectionable those provisions having to do with acquisition of rights of way.

Madden, however, changed his position on the bill because, he said, Mr. Coolidge had advised him that he would not insist on the Bonnet Carre or New Madrid river bank revisions, which were rejected yesterday.

These revisions would have placed upon the States of Illinois and Missouri, rather than the federal Government, the cost of damages for the New Madrid floodway and a similar burden upon the city of New Orleans for the Bonnet Carre spillway.

"I want to say in all confidence to the House that I have changed my position on the bill," Madden declared.

Jonniaux Portraits, to Be Shown in a Local Gallery, Excite Interest of Smart Set

CERTAIN BOSTONIANS OF DISTINCTION will come down the gangplank today when the Ile de France, that new and luxuriously appointed flagship, arrives at her New York dock from France. Mr. and Mrs. Walter R. Baylies of Commonwealth ave., with their younger daughter, Miss Ruth Baylies, are easily in this category of distinctive Bostonians. They are social leaders, they entertain lavishly, they are patrons of the arts and letters and are charming people personally. En passant, they are back in town again just in time to see themselves as they have recently been painted in oils by the Belgian artist, Alfred Jonniaux.

MR. BAYLIES IN THE FORMAL BLACK BROADCLOTH and immaculate fine linen of "after 6 o'clock," Mrs. Baylies in grand opera elaborateness of velvet gown and ravishing brocades, and Miss Baylies in modish simplicity form an interesting trio of portraits on which Bostonians may gaze. The Jonniaux portraits are to be shown at the Doll and Richards gallery through May 8. Society will be marvelously interested in the Belgian's work, since the George Saltonstall Mumfords as well as the Walter Baylies family have been transferred to everlasting oils and are hung along with the former for all to see.

THE ALEXANDER STEINERTS OF COMMONWEALTH AVE. are incoming passengers on the flagship aforementioned, home again after a long and interesting tour that included Egypt and all those attractions Society's newest place in the sun offers to the globe trotter ever avid for sights and places that are little known and different. The Steinerts included in their itinerary a stay with the younger Alexander Steinerts, who make their home in Paris, where the musically gifted Mr. Steinert finds full scope for his artistic metier.

Returns today with her parents from a European tour.

OF NEW ENGLAND, THOUGH not of Boston strictly speaking, are Mr. and Mrs. Anastase Vousiatsky, interesting people on the passenger list of the Ile de France. They make their home down in Connecticut, in that lovely rolling hill country found in the northern portion of that state.

THE STEAMSHIP FRANCE left New York a day or two ago with a passenger list of Bostonian flavor. Mr. and Mrs. John H. Ross of Forest Hills and Crow Point, in Hingham, are sailing away for a foreign journey of some weeks.

DOING THE GRAND TOUR, and girdling the world ever westward via the steamship Belgenland, Miss Grace Caswell of Boston and Keene has by now arrived in the Mediterranean and will see Europe by independent tour in motor and airplane. She and a friend debark at Naples and will do Italy thoroughly by motor, go on for a stay in Paris, cross to London by "airways" and sail for home later on the Homeric. For the summer, or the latter portion of it, Miss Caswell will probably be at her cottage on the Maine coast, in Casco Bay.

Miss Dana Sieveling's Pupils to Dance at Brattle Hall

CAMBRIDGE'S OLD AND REVERED "Brattle Hall" has in its time housed many an attraction, musical, dramatic or pictorial. But of them all none will be more pleasantly beheld and remembered than next Saturday afternoon's, when very youthful devotees of Terpsichore will cavort about. They, the dancers, are pupils in the graceful art under Miss Dana Sieveling's clever direction, and the affair is her annual dance recital. Designed as such performances are, the very special interest will be that of fond parents watching their offspring in various steps and postures.

PATRONESSES LEND DISTINCTION. Mrs. Charles Almy, Mrs. Langdon Frothingham, Mrs. Francis Stewart Kershaw, Mrs. Malcolm Lang, Mrs. Robert Treat Paine, 2d; Mrs. Joseph G. Thorp, Mrs. Prescott Evarts, Mrs. Curtis Curtin, Mrs. Joseph W. Courtney, Mrs. Gerald Boardman, Miss Alberta M. Houghton, Mrs. Eugene Tryon Redmond and Mrs. Horace Morison are of the score or so lending their names. Miss Miriam Winslow, who dances with a grace and abandon almost professional, will do some special numbers with Miss Sieveling. They dance charmingly and the numbers should be delightful.

FRIENDS OF THAT VETERAN of the steeplechase game, Bayard Tuckerman, are praying that he has no intention of emulating Britain's heir to the throne when it comes to coming croppers in the field. Great good luck must follow Mr. Tuckerman, in that his spills seem never to have serious consequences, and he's up and away usually before the gallery is breathing normally again. At Aqueduct, the Tuckerman horses and their gentleman rider never are with the "also rans." Mr. Tuckerman's ability with the reins and his steed's speed tell a very different story when the results are posted.

SO FAR AS THE SHOWING OF spring regalia goes, Aqueduct is almost a complete failure regarding feminine fine raiment. Smart warm tweeds, both cold and mist defying, the sort that our cousins across the pond wear with swank and manner, are the thing for Aqueduct racing days. The Boston contingent, distinctly of the Myopian flavor, included Mrs. Bayard Tuckerman, wearing one of her favorite brown ensembles that for a certain bleak day not only was delightfully comfortable but becoming also in its woolly warmth.

WAR ON CANCER IS OPENED

A state-wide war on cancer was under way today. The opening gun was fired at an impressive meeting in Symphony Hall, addressed by Governor Fuller, Mayor Nichols, Rev. Father George P. O'Conor, representing Cardinal O'Connell; Dr. William A. Evans of Chicago, and Dr. Richard C. Cabot of Harvard.

The public is asked to co-operate with the leaders in the war on the dread disease. There will be daily meetings throughout the State, in schools, hospitals, colleges and public halls. The crusade will continue through this week, and the chief effort will be to arouse the public to the peril, and to secure the public's assistance in the fight.

CORINTH DESTROYED BY 2 MORE QUAKES; 13 DIE

Athens, April 24 (AP)—The devastated city of Corinth was rocked by two more earth shocks this morning and Corinthians must seek homes elsewhere.

Four Greek ministers who went to the stricken district returned today and said they considered the city ruined beyond repair. This was the second time in 70 years that Corinth had been destroyed. The damage was estimated at $780,000. The death total was set at 13.

TWO MEN FLEE MYSTERY PLANE AFTER LANDING

Bridgeport, Ct., April 24 (AP)—A two-seater airplane made a forced landing at Greens Farm. The wings bore the number 5048. The propellor snapped off in the landing. Investigation showed the plane to have ample fuel in the gas tank and low visibility was given as the probable reason for the descent.

The two men in the plane ran off and hopped into a passing motor car without giving their names to the owner of the farm as he ran out to meet them.

DELAY MAY KILL BILL FOR GOLD STAR MOTHERS

By JAMES T. WILLIAMS, JR.,
Editor of Universal Service.

Washington, April 24—Gold Star mothers throughout the country will be distressed to hear that their bill is in jeopardy.

This is the bill introduced in the House last December by Representative Butler of Pennsylvania, chairman of the House Committee on Naval Affairs, to authorize a grateful government to send the mothers and unmarried widows of the deceased soldiers, sailors and marines of the American forces interred in the cemeteries of Europe on a pilgrimage to these cemeteries this year at the expense of the American people.

On behalf of the Committee on Military Affairs Representative Morin of Pennsylvania, its chairman, submitted the bill to the House last month with a favorable report. It passed without the formality of a roll call.

When it reached the Senate a few days latere and was referred to its Committee on Military Affairs, Senator Reed of Pennsylvania, the chairman, promptly turned it over to a sub-committee consisting of Senator Bingham of Connecticut, chairman, and Senators McMaster of South Dakota and Tyson of Tennessee.

FAILED TO ADVANCE.

Since that time Senator Bingham has failed to advance the measure. He has not reported it back to the full committee. He has not even indicated, when, if at all, he intends to hold a hearing on the bill.

Unless he takes more interest in its fate within the next fortnight than he has to date, the Gold Star mothers who have been looking to the opportunity before their earthly pilgrimage ends of seeing the places where their heroic dead are buried in a foreign land are doomed to disappointment.

Senators and Representatives in Congress who are eager to see this bill enacted into law are at a loss to explain the apparent indifference of Senator Bingham in regard to it. Equally in the dark are members of the Cabinet who have expressed themselves in favor of the measure. The fact that Senator Bingham enjoyed the privilege of serving overseas with the A. E. F. as a major in the Army Air Corps was hailed by the sponsors of this bill as an assurance that he would favor its prompt passage through the Senate.

SENATORS IN FAVOR

Those who have sounded senators on the subject say that the Senate awaits only an opportunity to get a vote on the bill to pass it as promptly as did the House. There is nothing complicated about the measure as it stands. There may be one or two perfecting amendments proposed, but these would facilitate and not obstruct the main purpose of the bill.

If Sen. Bingham persists in his refusal to report the measure favorably to the full committee, it is probable that the Gold Star mothers of Pennsylvania, supported by the veterans of that state, will appeal to Sen. Reed, the chairman of the committee on military affairs, to emancipate the bill from Sen. Bingham's custody and turn it over to some senator who believes that the first three billion dollar government in the history of the world not only can afford but ought to be authorized to send its Gold Star mothers on a pilgrimage to the graves of their dead across the Atlantic.

As Congress expects to adjourn between the first and the tenth of next June, prompt action must be taken on the Butler bill if it is to be saved from defeat in the congestion that invariably occurs in the closing days of the session.

SANDINO HOLDS 3 AMERICANS

Managua, Nicaragua, April 24 (AP)—American marines faced a hazardous task today in wresting from rebel Gen. Augustino Sandino two American gold mines he was believed to have seized with their staffs. Fear was expressed for the safety of the captured men.

W. J. Crampton, collector of customs of Puerto Cabezas, on the northeast coast, reported two mines near the headquarters of the Pis Pis river have been robbed by rebels. The belief that those were the La Luz y Los Angeles and Bonanza mines was strengthened by word from New York that La Luz y Los Angeles mine had been confiscated and three Americans, an Englishman and a Norwegian made prisoner.

PEGGY TUDOR SUES COUSIN OF ALFONSO

Los Angeles, April 24 (AP)—Peggy Tudor, New York actress, has reached the end of her romance with the Spanish nobleman, Alfonso de Figueroa y Bermejillo, son of the Duke of Tovar, a second cousin to the King of Spain.

Just four days ago the charming actress admitted that she was the wife of the Spanish monarch's second cousin and today she has a suit on file in Superior Court here asking for a divorce decree on grounds of cruelty.

The romance of the American actress and the youthful Spanish nobleman had its sitting in New York and Madrid and its apparent demise in Hollywood, where, before their separation, they had been occupying a cosey bungalow in a garden court.

They were secretly married in Ontario, Cal., last January 26.

The young scion of the Spanish ducal family was first attracted to Miss Tudor when they met at a party in New York. Some time later his interest in her ripened into love, when she journeyed to Madrid to dance before King Alfonso and Queen Eugenie by request.

In Madrid they decided to be married, and returned to America.

GROTON CASES MAY GO TO THE JURY TODAY

Final arguments were begun today in the so-called Groton graft cases at East Cambridge court, with indications they may go to the jury before night.

Edward Tierney, counsel for John H. Trayne, head of the street department, in beginning the closing arguments, declared no evidence had been introduced showing his client had participated in a conspiracy. He said the only charge to be considered was conspiracy and any other offenses had no bearing on the matter at issue.

Atty. Tierney bitterly assailed Edward L. Leavitt, former chief of police. He said when Leavitt was summarily discharged by Selectman Frank H. Torrey, also a defendant, he knew he would be investigated and probably prosecuted.

HOW LEAVITT GOT MONEY

To offset this, Leavitt, according to Atty. Tierney, went to Mrs. Boynton, wealthy resident of the town, obtained as much money as he needed, and then went to the district attorney.

"That is the only reason for this case," the lawyer said.

Atty. Daniel Needham, for John H. Cutler, also scored Leavitt. He said Cutler had paid a fine in Groton for bootlegging, but had never conspired with anyone. His request for a directed verdict of not guilty for Cutler was denied.

The first witness at today's session was the present chief of police, James N. Kane, who, under re-direct examination by defense counsel, said the record of the transfer of the truck which figured largely in the Torrey case was dated September 20, 1927. This evidence was introduced to prove that Torrey's deal with the town was legitimate.

SURPRISE WITNESS

The defense also attempted to offer evidence by Everett J. Cleary, night telephone operator at Groton, from whom former Chief of Police Edward L. Leavitt testified he had obtained $150. District Attorney Robert T. Bushnell objected to permitting Cleary's testimony to go in and his objection was sustained.

The government then introduced a surprise witness in rebuttal in the person of Mason Shattuck, Groton farmer and sawmill operator. Over the objection of defense counsel, he testified that Defendant Trayne had told him he could not work for the town unless one of Torrey's boys drove his truck, as Gus Moulton, Jr., his driver, was lazy.

Shattuck said he dropped his other work and drove the truck himself rather than permit one of the Torrey boys to do it. The witness, in response to questions, said Torrey's truck, which he leased to the town, was not capable of doing the same work as the other trucks. Similar testimony was given as to the Torrey truck by Edmund J. Fuller, a Groton garage man.

EX-BOSTON FORGER GETS 10 YEARS IN NEW YORK

New York, April 24 (AP)—Francis Swendeman, 36, who had previously been arrested in Boston and Providence, was sentenced to state prison for 10 years today after pleading guilty to attempting forgery. He was alleged to have indorsed checks stolen from letter boxes here.

Police records show that he was convicted of forgery in Boston in 1910, again convicted in Cambridge, Mass., 10 years later, and that in 1924 he forfeited $10,000 following his arrest in Providence.

MADDEN QUITS COOLIDGE ON FLOOD BILL

Washington, April 24 (AP)—Supporters of the Senate flood control bill prevailed in the House again today and over administration opposition adopted an amendment to provide that the federal Government assume the cost of acquiring flowage rights in the proposed spillway and floodway areas.

Washington, April 24 (AP)—Chairman Madden, one of the administration leaders, announced in the House today the withdrawal of his opposition to the Senate Jones flood control bill, but it developed simultaneously that President Coolidge still objects to some features of the measure.

While the President approves the amendments adopted by the House yesterday, he still finds objectionable those provisions having to do with acquisition of rights of way.

Madden, however, changed his position on the bill because, he said, Mr. Coolidge had advised him that he would not insist on the Bonnet Carre or New Madrid river bank revisions, which were rejected yesterday.

These revisions would have placed upon the States of Illinois and Missouri, rather than the federal Government, the cost of damages for the New Madrid floodway and a similar burden upon the city of New Orleans for the Bonnet Carre spillway.

"I want to say in all confidence to the House that I have changed my position on the bill," Madden declared.

London Society Women Put on 4000 Tons of Fat

TODAY'S VOTES ARE VITAL TO HOOVER

By GEORGE R. HOLMES,
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

Washington, April 24—Herbert Hoover's chances for the Republican presidential nomination at Kansas City seven weeks hence will be influenced—perhaps decisively—by the primary elections today in Massachusetts, Ohio and Pennsylvania.

The results, involving 169 delegates, may furnish the answer to the politicians' constant query: "Can Hoover be stopped?"

The stake in Ohio comprises 51 delegates. Hoover managers in Washington claim a majority.

Pennsylvania's block of 79 delegates will go uninstructed and under control of Secretary Andrew W. Mellon, who has never committed himself on the Hoover candidacy.

Hooverites hope for a clean sweep of the 39 delegates from Massachusetts.

While the Republicans in these states are electing 160 delegates to Kansas City, the Democrats are electing 160 delegates to the Houston convention

By common consent, Ohio's 48 Democratic delegates will go to Houston committed to former Senator Atlee Pomerene as first choice, but Smith probably will get most of them it is believed. As to Massachusetts the Smith candidacy is conceded by all 36 delegates.

In Pennsylvania the anti-Smith forces have organized under the banner of Vance McCormick, campaign manager for Woodrow Wilson in 1916, and he may save a bloc of Pennsylvania's 76 delegates from going to the New York Governor.

running in opposition to the state representation slate for delegate-at-large to the national convention, received 30 votes, while the highest total received by the three leaders on the party ticket was 21. This total was cast for William M. Butler, Sen. Frederick H. Gillett and Channing H. Cox. The other members of the "Big Seven" all received less than 20 votes each.

Only one Democratic ballot was cast here. It indicated the voter's preference for Governor Smith of New York as the Democratic presidential choice.

Innes-Parkman Fight Features Boston Vote

Featured by a hot delegate fight between Charles H. Innes, Republican Back Bay leader, and City Councillor Henry Parkman in the 11th district, presidential primaries were held throughout the State today.

Inclement weather kept many away from the polls in the early hours, but with clearing weather it was expected a fair vote would be cast before the end of the day.

Governor and Mrs. Alvan T. Fuller motored from their Beacon st., home to Malden, where they voted at the Ashland st ward room, in the fire station, at 9:45. This is Ward 1, Pre. 1, the Fullers' regular voting place, and they were enthusiastically greeted by political workers and citizens who are old friends.

Warden John Barnes, a veteran, remarked to the governor: "You seem to vote rain or shine." Rain was falling at the time.

"Yes," replied Governor Fuller, "I believe it is the duty of every citizen to vote."

After casting their ballots, the Governor and Mrs. Fuller shook hands with officials and friends, and departed.

The Innes-Parkman contest was fought in the district that includes the Back Bay, a part of the South End, Roxbury and West Roxbury. Innes is heading one group of delegates and alternates with Walter R. Meins as his associate for delegate. Councillor Parkman, in combination with Gordon Watt of West Roxbury, is leading the opposition.

Innes workers handed out stickers bearing the names of all Republican presidential possibilities, including President Coolidge and Governor Fuller. Other names were Curtis, Dawes, Hoover, Hughes, Lowden, Norris and Watson.

The voters were expected to tear off the name they favored and paste it on the ballot. A sample Republican ballot was also distributed in this district, bearing the names of the "big seven" or regular party candidates for delegates-at-large, each marked with a cross. The name of the only opposition candidate, Frederick L. Anderson of Newton, was missing. The ballots were given out by the Republican League of Ward 4.

HEAVY VOTE IN BACK BAY.

Up to noon a heavy vote had come out in all the wards of the 11th district, with 2,000 polled in Ward 4, Innes' home ward, and 1,600 in Ward 5 where Parkman lives. Leaders of both sides were enthusiastic, although the Innes men had cut down their prediction of [illegible]y from 3 to 1 to 2 to 1.

Other wards in the city, not involved in this fight, showed a light vote, some precincts in Dorchester having polled less than 31 votes up to noon.

Early returns seemed to indicate the success of both Republican and Democratic delegates-at-large, the Republican slate being unpledged but favorable to Hoover. Members of the Democratic slate are all pledged to Smith.

In practically every community automobiles were provided for those who cared to use them, and in some instances a house to house canvass was made.

A fairly heavy vote was being cast in Brookline, 1002 being registered up to 10 o'clock. There was little interest in Brighton and Roxbury, however.

With Smith expected to swamp the Democratic primary interest centers in the Republican vote with Hoover the favorite.

The Republicans elect 39 delegates seven at large and two from each of the 16 congressional districts, while the Democrats, though entitled to but 36 votes at the national convention, will elect twice that number, each delegate to have half a vote.

OTHER CANDIDATES.

A point of interest in the Republican party is how many votes will be cast for President Coolidge in spite of his repeated statements that he is not a candidate. There is strength in the State for Vice-President Dawes, some for Charles E. Hughes and some for Senator Curtis of Kansas

In the sixth district also, Congressman A. Piatt Andrew and J. Otis Wardwell, recognized as two of the most prominent Republican leaders in the State, are running in combination for delegates, pledged to Governor Fuller for the presidential nomination. Fuller has declared for Hoover and has announced that he is not interested in being given any "favorite son" complimentary vote; but the 6th district, because of the pledged campaign being made by Andrew and Wardwell and the rest of the State, because of the governor's personal popularity, will undoubtedly show quite a sentiment for Fuller.

Both the Republican and the Democratic organizations have battles on their hands as far as election of delegates-at-large is concerned. On the Democratic side the slate of eight candidates picked by the State organization, with the consent of Governor Smith to use his name opposite theirs on the ballot, is being opposed by Mayor Lawrence F. Quigley of Chelsea, who, however, is also for the nomination of Governor Smith for President.

Because of a local contest, a heavy vote was being cast in Winchester, 549 voters having registered their preferences at 10 o'clock.

Interest centered in the contest between Helen I. Fessenden and Frederick S. Snyder in combination, against Mrs. Henry H. Addington Bruce and James W. Bean, as candidates for alternate delegates.

Woman of 100 and Kin of 2 to Hold Joint Birthday

Out at the L. B. Lewis estate in Woburn st., Reading, tomorrow, two birthday anniversaries will be celebrated—one by a great-grandmother who reaches her 100th milestone, and the other by her great-granddaughter who will be only two.

Still vigorous and able to read without glasses, Mrs. Elvira Webber, widow of a sea captain, with whom she sailed around the world several times, will be congratulated at the home of her daughter, Mrs. L. B. Lewis, by relatives and friends.

The little great-granddaughter, whose birthday falls on the same date, doesn't quite know what it's all about, but she intends to enjoy her party, nevertheless. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Fowle of Reading.

Cal's Little Circus Pal, Grown Up, Is His Lunch Guest

A little girl who used to be taken to the circus by Governor Calvin Coolidge, returned today from Washington a very much grownup and dignified lady, but thrilled nevertheless at having lunched with President Calvin Coolidge.

She was Miss Eleanor Horrigan, senior at the Teachers' College in Boston and daughter of State Fire Inspector Fred A. Horrigan, who was bodyguard for Mr. Coolidge when he was Governor.

Mr. and Mrs. Horrigan and daughter Eleanor had luncheon at the White House last Tuesday, they said, and there were present, also, Governor and Mrs. John H. Trumbull of Connecticut and Mr. and Mrs. Frank W. Stearns of Boston.

CANADIAN ACE'S FEAT WINS OCEAN VICTORS' PRAISE

Herewith is the sixth chapter of the personally written narrative of Baron von Huenefeld. The story will be continued daily in the Boston Evening American.

Greenly Island, Que., April 24—We now have been on our island refuge for more than a week. It has been a week that has seen us first grateful to Providence for bringing us here when we had begun to despair of a chance to find a landing ground when our fuel was almost gone and that, latterly, has been full of anxiety to be under way again and reach our ultimate destination, New York.

Those people who have made such stalwart efforts to reach us here and to lend us their assistance have gone through much to bring us help that we must have in order to fly away from Greenly.

To the resourceful qualities of the Canadian pilot, Herr "Duke" Schiller, so much credit is due, and to those who accompanied him and stayed with us as well.

Schiller and Dr. Cuisinier came here by air from their own aerodrome under flying conditions of which the world knows little, but which to these gentlemen, who serve the fringe of civilization with their aeroplanes, are almost normal, it seems.

As we have heard of it from those modest fellows, the conditions entail a taking-off from the surface of a frozen lake which is their own aerodrome at a place in the Laurentide mountains, called Lake St. Agnes. From there a flight is made over high mountains, completely covered with snow and in which there is virtually no sign of human habitation except the occasional camps of the people who cut down the huge Canadian timber.

THROUGH BLINDING STORM

There is almost no place where a landing might be made in this part of the journey, for the mountains are covered with forests, and were one to come down on some isolated lake one might easily be in an impasse similar to the one with which we were faced when flying across Labrador in the Bremen.

Fogs and snowstorms still beset the regions, even at this late season of the year when the river and gulf are beginning to be open for ships again after the long winter.

The route followed by Schiller and Cuisinier took them over these mountains and back to the water again at what I believe is called the Manicouagan river, Manicouagan being a name which the people of the river and gulf have for the fogs which continually blanket their shores.

It was on Saturday, April 14, that those good friends of ours first reached the bay of Seven Islands, and there they slept Saturday night, leaving at the break of day on Sunday in a blinding snow gale which made the wiseacres of the countryside shake their heads and fear for the sanity of these brave fellows who were coming into the wilderness to find us.

Through this blinding storm those gallant friends of ours flew on and on over a country and gulf in which for many long miles a landing would be a matter of impossibility. On these shores, which I have never seen, but which I expect to see in a day or two now, there is no place where a landing could be made, and there is no ice in the gulf where a makeshift aerodrome can be found.

What one needs for landing fields for these planes that are equipped with skis for winter working is some bay or bight from the gulf where there is thick and smooth shore ice, and this part of the journey below Seven Islands, on the way to Natashquan, is devoid of such qualifications.

DISCUSS RELIEF PLANS

At length, skirting the coast line where it turns almost due north and veers towards Labrador along the Straits of Belle Isle, they fought their way to us and a perfect landing was effected, first at the long point of Blanc Sabon, where, seeing people on the ground, Schiller believed that he had found us

They waved him on towards us, however, and within five minutes he had brought his plane to rest at the island itself. To say that we were amazed is to put it in the mildest terms. We believed that we must have seen some new mirage of this northern desert and could scarcely believe our eyes.

Almost we had to clasp the hands of these friends from the skies before we could believe that our eyes were not again playing the tricks that they played in the long hours of fatigue that marked the latter stages of our journey in our Bremen across the Atlantic ocean.

We had no idea then whence came these brave new comrades, but we knew that they had come to befriend us and to ascertain what our condition might be and what steps must be taken to enable us to continue on our journey to New York. What the hardships and perils of that flight over the northern wilderness in that light aeroplane had been we did not know, but we were more than delighted that help should come in this manner by our own means of transport from the air.

As soon as our greetings had been exchanged and the Bremen given an inspection where the landing on Greenly Island had been made, we sat together in Monsieur Letemplier's so comfortable lighthouse and discussed ways and means and the possibility of flying away in the Bremen and of entering New York from the air as had been our original intent.

Koehl and Fitzmaurice firmly believed that by putting more benzol in our almost empty tanks, obtaining a new propellor and by repairing our undercarriage and substituting skis for our wheels, a takeoff could be made and a further flight accomplished.

To Schiller and Cuisinier, of course, we left the question of transport, but they were of one mind that it would be possible to fly back to the lake at St. Agnes, procure the necessary repairs and fuel and return with these to Greenly Island to fit the Bremen for the air.

In what way should this be done?

Discussions on the topic followed and a decision was reached that Fitzmaurice should fly back up over this barren country of the gulf of St. Lawrence's north coast with Schiller at the controls of his ship and that, on arrival at Murray Bay, repair pieces and benzol would be procured from the outside world with all possible speed and dispatch, and that these would be brought back by Schiller or, if his plane did not prove sufficiently large for the task, in a larger craft if one could be found.

The margin of safety, of course, it was admitted, would be enhanced if a larger aeroplane could be found to bring these parts to us, though to this gallant Herr Schiller, the question of his personal safety is one of the last things for consideration when there is work to be done.

So Fitamaurice and Schiller took away again and left me and Koehl on our island with Dr. Cuisinier and his engineer, Thibault, to make the preparations for the return journey. To Natashquan, to Seven Islands, again to Lake St. Agnes, they made their way, while we followed their progress as best we could and with anxious hearts through the slight means of communication which the outposts of the world have to offer.

Then we heard that Fitzmaurice was on his way to us again in another plane, flown by Bernt Balchen, who had crossed the Atlantic in company with your Commander Byrd, and so I sit myself down to breathlessly await their arrival with the precious gallons of benzol and parts to repair our Bremen.

It has been a strange few days of relief and then of anxiety to be continuing on our way, a week in which we have made new friends, whose only desire has been to aid us, without counting cost or danger to themselves as they helped.

I would not, however, recommend the coasts of this Straits of Belle Isle as a prospective port of arrival for any others who would contemplate the journey from east to west, though what it lacked in comfort it has made up to us in the warmth of its hospitality and welcome.

A Gallery Principle

NOT HOW CHEAP—BUT HOW GOOD

Inexpensive dresses are on sale everywhere. In fact they are the most plentiful of all dresses. But inexpensive dresses of fine materials are not so plentiful. The idea seems to prevail that the manufacturers of inexpensive dresses must make them cheaper and cheaper, and this usually is done by using cheaper and cheaper materials. In this sale, the idea is not to reduce the price but in every instance to improve the quality, and we have done it.

Economy in Price—Yes
Economy in Quality and Style—Never

WE NOW HAVE sixteen dress departments, which means a very large acquaintance with the very best makers—those with a full knowledge of quality, material, correct shades, correct lines, and those who make dresses that fit perfectly. So, on an occasion of this kind—the opening of a new department—our tremendous dress business commands values out of the ordinary. These makers, knowing it is the very best way to pay us their compliments on the opening of a new department, have sold us thousands of dresses at great concessions. All priced 10.00.

SAYS MONJAR MENACED READING

WEBSTER TELLS OF THREAT TO GET EVEN WITH ATTORNEY

which he had in his possession, Webster said:

MONJAR WAS BITTER

"Monjar was a little bitter. He thought he was obliged to sign the assignment. He said a lot of money had been taken from him and that he would get even with me and get even with Mr. Reading."

The attorney-general was absent again today from the hearing, as the prosecution caught up the loose ends of the case. He was expected to take the stand tomorrow morning with the opening of his defense. Thirty or forty defense witnesses are expected to follow him.

Webster was questioned at length regarding the $25 daily expense money which he and his brother, Joseph D. Webster, admitted receiving from the Decimo Club while in Boston to testify at the Reading inquiry. He said this expense money was paid him weekly by the New York headquarters.

READING RAPS JUDGE

During the reading of correspondence relating to the cattle fraud cases, a superior court judge was referred to in a letter by Reading as one who, "judging by his conduct, believes that all criminals should be awarded silver medals."

The attorney-general's letter, which was to Charles Fairhurst, district attorney at Greenfield, did not contain the judge's name, but Fairhurst's reply, also read, did, but the judge's name was deleted.

Reading was shown in the position of demanding prosecution to the fullest extent of the law and he advised the county prosecutor to have "a first-class judge on the bench."

ZEO IS RECALLED.

Two previous witnesses were recalled during the afternoon session. They were Herbert L. Barrett, the attorney who received the $25,000 check for Reading, and Samuel Lewis, assistant attorney-general.

Lewis was questioned about a trip which he made in October to Florida to sell land for Atty.-Gen. Reading at a price of $63,000.

Atty. Anderson of his defense counsel introduced all letters pertaining to the cattle fraud cases which were on file in the attorney-general's office. They ranged in date from February 12 to late November of last year.

Vincent J. Zeo, assistant attorney-general, took the stand, and was questioned regarding them.

David A. Webster, brother of Decimo's former treasurer, again took the stand and Anderson introduced a letter from Webster to Reading dated December 30, 1927, enclosing a copy of another letter dated December 27 and written by Webster to the executive committee of the Decimo Club.

"MY DEAR ARTHUR"

"Webster's salutation was "My dear Arthur," and he stated he inclosed a check for $10,000 and "because we are good friends, there is no necessity for a receipt," but that if he desired he might send a receipt to Oakland, Cal.

The inclosure, Webster's letter to the committee, informed the organization he had severed his relations with the club and that he had $15,500 given him by Monjar, and that Monjar had subsequently told him it was not his own money, but belonged to Decimo Club.

The letter said that in the event Decimo established its claim to the money, Webster stood ready to repay it, "but if Monjar attempts to establish ownership, I stand ready to see that he does not receive any portion of it on the ground that it was a gift to me."

MAKING AN ACCOUNTING.

Webster wrote he was making an accounting, that the amount received by him was $15,500 and that he was transferring $10,000 to Reading "to hold in trust pending the outcome of a suit by Monjar which, I understand, he is to institute, and I propose to give a note to Reading for $4320, which represents the balance on hand."

Q.—Was the arrangement agreed to? A.—It was.

SAYS MONJAR WAS BITTER

Q. On that day (Dec. 5) was there anything said about an assignment of Apaseo, Drew and other stock? A. Monjar said he would come to the office, sign a note and release that stock to Decimo.

The total of the assignment called for $99,000. Monjar came into the office "a little bitter," Webster said. "He thought he was obliged to sign the assignment. He said a lot of money had been taken from him and that he would get even with me and get even with Mr. Reading."

Q. Were you at the board meeting when the employment of Reading was considered in May? A. Yes.

Q. Can you tell me whether anything was said about Reading being employed as counsel? A. Yes Reading and Barrett names were mentioned. I understood that Barrett was to be associated with him.

NO NAMES USED

Q. Were you present when the enabling acts were passed allowing the chairman of the public relations committee to employ special counsel? A. Yes.

Q. Were any names used in the minutes? A. No.

Ernst & Ernst, auditors, found Monjar had been overpaid $18,000, Webster said.

Webster's examination was suspended and letters written to and by Reading on the cattle fraud cases were read to the committee. The following was among them, under date of October 7, 1927, directed to Hon. Charles Fairhurst, district attorney for the northwestern district, Greenfield, Mass., and was signed by Reading:

READING'S LETTER.

"Re Irving Fuller.

"Dear Mr. Fairhurst:

"In reply to your inquiry of October 3, I am advised that there are five or six other indictments against Fuller pending at Springfield and that Fuller will be retried. I understand he offered to plead guilty and pay a substantial fine, but the Commonwealth was opposed to compromise.

"I deem it quite essential that Mr. Fuller, who appears to have been one of the ringleaders in the conspiracy to defraud the Commonwealth, be prosecuted to the fullest extent of the law. With kindest personal regards.

"Cordially yours,
"Arthur K. Reading,
"Atty.-Gen.

"P. S. I think that Fuller should be indicted for conspiracy as well as for larceny, for obvious reasons, and that you should also insure having a first-class judge on the bench when you place him on trial. I understand that one judge has been sitting in your jurisdiction who, judging by his conduct, believes that all criminals should be awarded silver medals. "A. K. R."

KNOW WHO JUDGE IS

"I guess we know who that judge is," one of the committee members remarked.

Questioning of Webster by Chairman James began after the letters had been read.

Q.—Why did you come here? A.—To help Mr. Reading, if I could, by telling the truth. I told Mr. Reading that if he ever wanted me to be free to call on me.

Q.—Did he request that you come? A.—Yes.

Q.—How did he call on you? A.—He sent me a wire.

Q.—Did you see the telegram? A.—No, he sent it to my brother and wanted us to come as soon as we could.

Q.—I believe you said you were being paid $25 a day by Decimo Club while here? A.—Yes, sir.

Q.—Why did you ask Decimo Club in New York to pay your expenses? A.—Because I expect to be of some assistance in the defense of their suit in New York.

NOT FRIENDLY WITH MONJAR

Q.—Are you friendly with Mr Monjar? A.—I am sorry to say I am not.

Q.—When did the unfriendliness with him begin? A.—In October, at some time.

Q.—What was the reason for it? A.—We didn't agree on some things. I was firm that he should do certain things in a certain way and he was just as firm that he wouldn't.

Q.—An honest difference of opinion? A.—Yes.

WHAT READING SAID

Webster said he thought Reading made a remark like, "Do you expect to buy my official position," when the matter of employment by the Decimo Club was mentioned to him.

Q.—Why was it you did not send the attorney-general on December 30, 1927, all of the $15,500 you had received from Monjar? A.—I did not have it all in cash. I had it invested in stocks.

Q.—And that stock was purchased with money given you by Monjar? A.—Some of it.

Q.—Why was it you did not send the stock representing the portion of the money Monjar had given you? A.—Because I trade on margin.

Q. (Representative Buckley)—This is an investigation of Reading and not the Decimo Club. Do you know why the Decimo Club is paying your expenses here? Is there any reason why the Decimo Club should pay for your expenses to help Mr. Reading? A.—He is their counsel. They are being jointly sued. The facts will be established here as well as in New York in regard to the suit. Mr. Reading is their counsel and is being jointly sued.

Q.—You testified, didn't you, that you did not know Mr. Reading was counsel for the new board of directors? A.—I went to Reading this morning and asked him if he was their counsel at the present moment and he said he was.

REFUSED TO GIVE UP

Q. Why did you turn over the $10,000 to Mr. Reading when you did not know then he was still counsel for the club? A. The Decimo Club asked for it and I refused to give it to them. I wanted it turned over to someone I could trust.

Q. Then if Monjar wins the New York suit you expect to keep the money? A. Yes.

Q.—What principal have you from which you derive an income? A.—Do I have to tell you how much money I've got and what stock I've got?

James ordered the question answered.

Q.—Has your income been $100 a month? A.—It may have been.

Q.—Has it been $500 a month? A.—Not that much.

DATE ON THE LETTER.

Webster defied anyone to show a telegram that he sent to Reading announcing his intended visit to Boston with his brother May 27 and 28.

Referring to the letter which Webster sent Reading, enclosing the $10,000 check on Dec. 30, Rep. Davison asked: "Is there any reason why that date couldn't have been put on that letter today?"

A.—I wouldn't do such a thing.

Q.—Is there anything on that letter to show it was written on December 30? A.—I think the letter speaks for itself; that date is on it. James: Couldn't you trust wourself with that $10,000 you sent to Reading?

A—If I had it I could have used it to good advantage.

Q—Didn't you think it a bit suspicious that the name of Reading as special counsel was not included in the minutes of the Decimo Club meeting? A—I don't recall what my thoughts were.

Q—Don't you think it suspicious now? A—No.

SEX EDUCATION STUDY IS URGED AT WOMEN'S LEAGUE

Chicago, April 24 (AP)—Sex education and its relationship to community health and delinquency were recommended as topics of study for the National League of Women Voters, holding its biennial convention here today. The "lame duck" constitutional amendment proposal and farm relief legislation also were recommended for study.

The period between the election of the President, Vice-President and members of Congress would be shortened so that their terms would expire soon after national elections under the proposal of the league's department of efficiency in government.

HUNDREDS FLEE BIG FLOODS IN SOUTH; 4 DEAD

Atlanta, April 24 (AP)—Increasing reports of marooned towns, evacuated inhabitants and enormous damage to highways, crops and property trickled out of Western Florida and Southern Alabama today as mad streams from torrential rains of last week end surged through the lowlands of the coastal [illegible].

With more than a thousand persons driven from their homes at Brewton, Ala., an important lumber community, a dozen other villages in the territory were isolated from the world with no news of their plight.

Estimates of damage ran into the millions but only four persons were reported to have met death.

Brewton, nestling between the forks of Burnt Corn and Murder Creeks, was flooded by the waters which swept from the great [illegible] watershed to the north to [illegible] the principal streets. Reports placed the water from four to six feet deep in the business section of the town, with railway and highway communication broken.

Several hundred persons were said to be quartered in the court house while a relief committee ministered to the needs of the [illegible]. Many families who had taken to the roofs of houses to escape the waters were removed by boats.

Fifty families were reported to have been driven from their homes at Flomaton on the [illegible] river.

Six hundred inhabitants of the town of [illegible], Fla., on the Choctawhatchee river driven out by the rising waters were quartered at Bonifay, 30 miles away, while residents of the [illegible] river villages in Georgia and Florida had taken to higher ground.

Cardinal O'Connell presented Mr. Newsome with a [illegible] containing the citation.

BORAH IS QUIZZED ON HIS NICARAGUA STAND

Washington, April 24 (INS)—Senator W. E. Borah was put on the receiving end of a questionnaire today. Borah, who has questionnaired all presidential candidates on their attitude toward the 18th amendment, was sent an open letter by the Anti-Monopoly League, demanding to know "why you [illegible] nullification of the Constitution by the President in using marines in Nicaragua without authority of Congress while opposing nullification of the 18th amendment."

SKIPPERS PASS BLAME IN HUB SHIP CRASH

With each skipper blaming the other, the report of steamboat inspectors on the crash between the collier Lackawanna and schooner Sharpshooter was forwarded to Washington today.

The Sharpshooter sank at midnight Friday in Vineyard sound, between West Chop and Tarpaulin cove. Her captain, mate and a [illegible] passenger were taken off by the crew of the collier.

"I sighted the steamship some 15 minutes before the crash," Capt. Warren [illegible] of the Sharpshooter testified. "I [illegible] the red light on her port and the white masthead.

"One blast of the whistle drew no response. She just kept coming. Then I threw my flashlight on my mainsail. It was set in addition to our wing under power."

Capt. O. R. Wilson of the Lackawanna said he [illegible] the pilot house and was [illegible] at the crash [illegible]. The [illegible] officer, William T. [illegible], was at the wheel, he said.

[illegible] said the schooner crossed the bow and he swung to [illegible] but the vessel was so close it was impossible to avoid the crash. He was emphatic in his statement that the schooner carried no running lights.

"The first sight I had of the schooner was the reflection of the searchlight on her mainsail," he declared.

E. H. FORBUSH RETIRES FROM STATE POSITION

Old age [illegible] forced the retirement of Edward Howe Forbush from his post as director of the division of ornithology of the State Department of Agriculture. Forbush is 70 years old, the limit set by law for persons holding state office, and despite the fact he is one of the most famous ornithologists in the world, the veteran was forced to relinquish his position.

He does not retire from active work, however, for he becomes New England representative of the National Association of Audubon Societies.

The Man Pays! Women Spend His Salary

Washington, April 24 (INS)—Men are going into the discard as money spenders and it's getting to a point where they don't even select their own socks and neckties.

Women spend about $32,000,000,000, or four-fifths of the money passing over retail counters of stores every year, Julius Klein of the Commerce Department declared today.

"It seems the sheerest nonsense for mere man to intimate he is of any retail trade consequence," Klein said.

"No less than 85 per cent of the consumer buying is done by women. Nor is woman buying solely occupied with things for her own adornment, as has been inferred by some irreverent cynics.

"Women purchase about 65 per cent of all the men's hosiery and 62 per cent of their neckwear."

CLAMMER ARRESTED IN REVERE BATTLE

One of the clammiest battles two game wardens ever had with a clammer ended today at Revere with the arrest of the latter after the wardens had rolled around in mud, sand and water. The prisoner was W. R. Marie, 29, of [illegible] way st., West Lynn, and according to the wardens it is his [illegible] arrest for digging clams in a contaminated area.

According to Game Warden Ernest C. Cloon and his assistant, Frederick Seaman, they were riding in their auto when they sighted Marie on the flats. Marie ran but the wardens pursued up the bank of the Pines river until Cloon overhauled his quarry. Then the battle started and ended just as a wagon load of Revere police was hastening to the scene in response to somebody's telephone call.

GOVERNOR SMITH GOES TO NEW JERSEY TOMORROW

New York, April 24 (INS)—"I returned to attend to some personal matters and I will leave tomorrow afternoon for the Sea View Golf Club at Absecon, N. J., to stay there as I had originally planned." RAISE OVER $40,000 FOR DANBURY HAT MAN

Danbury, Ct., April 24 (AP)—A fund to provide an annuity for Dietrich E. Loewe, once a manufacturing hatter, who became nationally known through carrying to the highest court in the land 'the Danbury hatters case,' now exceeds by several thousand dollars the figure fixed by its sponsors, $40,000.

Loewe, in his 7[illegible]th year, partially blind and in straitened circumstances, is to receive the annuity that he may be relieved of financial worries. It was a boycott of organized labor against his output that gave origin to the celebrated case. In fighting for the principle that a manufacturer had a right to maintain an open shop he became impoverished.

"MERRY WIVES" FINELY ACTED AT HOLLIS

By NICHOLAS YOUNG

NONE of the necessary virtues of the theater were missing at the Hollis last night when Harrison Grey Fiske's impressive revival of "The Merry Wives of Windsor" crossed the stage in the ten frolicking episodes comprising Falstaff's discouraging tilts with the ladies. Measured by any standard, you discovered quality in acting, fullness of production and force of numbers. It was a stirring combination of assorted talents—technical and artistic—and a friendly, attentive first night audience made the most of every gesture.

As a triple-starred expedition into the lighter-toned works of Shakespeare, it will stand high among the season's bold theatrical ventures. Revivals having caught the managerial eye up and down Broadway, the eager playgoer no longer accepts them as mere novelties in the everturning dramatic cycle. Revivals are now being standardized and set to popular tempo.

MRS. FISKE SPLENDID

Mr. Fiske's choice of leaders for "The Merry Wives of Windsor" reflected good taste and good sense during every moment of the performance. Mrs. Fiske, more sprightly than ever, and fired with the spirit of youth, frisked through merry scenes with the free and untrammeled spirit of a child on a lark.

Mistress Page is said to be Mrs. Fiske's first Shakespearean role since she was a child in arms and was carried to the stage. Shakespearean presentation during the passing years must have missed much that could have been enjoyed.

And Otis Skinner, as the expansive Falstaff, broadened by [illegible] into a round old [illegible] of amorous inclinations, was as nearly faultless as it is possible for any actor to appear in the [illegible] speech and quaint costumes of Elizabethan days. He played the hard, perspiring role of the comedy; all toil and mostly misery.

Henrietta Crosman, the last of Mr. Fiske's lively trio, made Mistress Ford a lady of magnetic charm and delicate sense of humor. Like her companions she sensed the demands pressed upon her and met them completely.

PIQUANT AS PAGE

Others, too, brought donations, great and small. France Bendtsen as Francis Ford, and Rodolpho Badaloni as Doctor Caius, were the explosive, high-strung gentlemen of the comedy; they fretted and fumed and were constantly out of sorts in the best of Shakespearean style. William C. Masson and Eleanor Gordon, of more than casual local favor, plodded faithfully through contributing parts, while Virginia Smith, shapely and piquant, made an interesting page to the imbibing, distressed Falstaff.

Never has there been more undiluted farce crowded into five acts; never has farce been invested with more brilliant names. That is "The Merry Wives of Windsor" at the Hollis.

"NAUGHTY NIFTIES" IS STRONG GAYETY BILL

"Naughty Nifties," the new burlesque entertainment at the Gayety, is a lively concoction of froth and frivol.

George (Buttons) Fares and Wava White are the principal contributors to the mirth and melody. Others are Phil Young, Johnny Gilmore, Doug Fleming, Dorothy Lee and Helen Morgan.

The "Nifties" themselves are sixteen girls whose particular talents are concentrated on appealing to the optic nerve.

Gus Kahn produced the show. Maurie Gray staged it.

HARVARD R. O. T. C. WILL CRUISE ON BATTLESHIP

Washington, April 24 (AP)—Schedules of two-week training cruises for naval reserve students from leading universities of the country this summer on two battleships and an airplane carrier were announced today by the Navy Dept. On the east coast the battleship Wyoming will take R. O. T. C. units from Yale, Harvard, Georgia Tech and Northwestern University and will visit Halifax, N. S. In the recent trial run of the battleship Utah nine sophomores from the Harvard University unit were also taken for a short cruise.

Continuing Shows

MAJESTIC—"Good News," a collegiate musical comedy. Everything from mandolins to football.

TREMONT—"Hit the Deck," a musical comedy in which the gay and frivolous lads of the navy have a rollicking time.

SHUBERT—"Here's Howe," a musical play carrying its own jazz band. Ben Bernie makes the comedy.

COPLEY—"The Wrecker," a mystery drama. Incidentally there are many moments of bubbling fun.

COLONIAL—"The King of Kings," a filming of the life story of Jesus Christ.

WILBUR—"The Silver Cord," a play of mother love, with Laura Hope Crews in the featured role.

BLANCHE YURKA SCORES BIG IN "THE SQUALL"

"The Squall," at the Plymouth is a medley of elements popular in the up-to-date theater. It contains a gypsy Tondeleyo, a first-class rainstorm, sharp stabs of lightning, rolling thunder and a Great Big Man who wears a kerchief on his head and cracks a whip. It also contains Blanche Yurka, which should be a comfort to anyone disturbed about those other things.

Blanche Yurka

Among what must be called the simple mountain folk of southern Spain in the play's scene set, its principal characters are: An artistic father and son; their more level-headed mother, and Tondeleyo the Terrible, in the shape of a gypsy girl, who (we deeply regret to say) furnishes the sex appeal.

When, amidst the roaring tempest of the first act, the gypsy stumbles in out of the rain upon the snug Mendez home, anyone with half an eye could plainly see that there was more trouble brewing in them tha'r hills.

Before a year has passed, Nubi—that's the gypsy—makes easy prey of father and son. Mrs. Mendez learns the "goins on," and the fat's in the fire.

As it is perfectly proper for a drama to become a melodrama if it chooses, "The Squall" exercises its own prerogative and hits off several high C's, good and loud. The best of these moments are safely entrusted to Miss Yurka, whose extensive talents always hold power in reserve, ready for such emergencies.

If Suzane Caubaye, who plays the alluring temptress to the [illegible], had been Dangerous Dan McGrew himself, she could have [illegible] no greater menace to the [illegible], trusting hearts of the Mendez home.

Lee Baker, as the father, met his fate when he [illegible] the girl [illegible] Mervyn W[illegible] as the boy [illegible] to [illegible], and lost his head when the moon came up.

As witness to the havoc in her home, Miss Yurka did what only a sensible wife and mother could do—she bided her time until the opportune moment and The Man With The Whip came along to expose the perfidy of Little Gypsy and the folly of her two "men folks."

Thanks mainly to Blanche Yurka, "The Squall" is an exciting entertainment. With her artistic presence, it is possible to imagine the Farmer's Almanac or a Sears, Roebuck catalogue made into a [illegible] hit of the season.

TRIXIE FRIGANZA IS HEADLINER AT KEITH'S

The older Trixie Friganza grows the younger she grows! Trixie's headlining at Keith's this week with her "Bag O' Trix" and it's a rollicking, side-splitting bag of [illegible] getting tricks the "Grand Duchess of Comedy" brings with her.

But Trixie hardly carries off all the honors by any means. She gets competition aplenty from the younger generation personified, in one act, by Carol Chilton and Maceo Thomas, a girl and boy who dance in a way that beggars description. They actually stop the show.

For music lovers there's Count Berni Vici and His Symphonic Girls. Their blending of symphony and jazz is augmented by special features and scenic effects which would do justice to a musical comedy.

Frank Rose and Olive Thorne, neither of them new to Boston theater goers, bring down the house with their "swede" act and the Harrington Sisters, Helen and Agnes, pout through some pretty "baby" numbers a la Duncan Sisters.

HUB THEATER TREASURERS' SHOW AT COLONIAL MAY 11

The Boston Theater Treasurers Club of Boston will hold its fourth annual all-star benefit performance in the Colonial Theater on Friday afternoon, May 11, when practically every star in the city will put on "a bit" to help the cause.

Frank D. Orvitt

All proceeds of the performance go to the [illegible] fund which the organization maintains for those who are disabled and for the dependents of those who have passed away. Every theater in downtown Boston is represented in the club membership.

President Ernest A. Grenier, Vice-President Frank D. Orvitt, Treasurer Hugo W. J. Lundgren, and secretaries Araham Coplen and Thomas E. Roche are at the head of the general committee which is now at work perfecting the plans for the gala event.

Week's Features

BOWDOIN SQUARE—Charlie Chaplin in "The Circus," and Joan Crawford in "The Law of the Range."

WALDRON'S CASINO (Burlesque)—Lew Williams and his "Black and White" revue.

HOWARD (Burlesque)—"Laffin' Thru" revue.

HUMOR, THRILLS AT ST. JAMES

Gasps of fright followed by spontaneous bursts of merriment were drawn from the capacity audience which witnessed "Out of the Night," a mystery com[illegible] the St. James [illegible] of Cupid's target [illegible] most admirably [illegible].

Clara Joel

As [illegible] the mystery and [illegible] the [illegible] plot is woven about the murder of an old man in a d[illegible] house. The queer happenings which follow the discovery of the body with the finger of suspicion pointing to Tom Holland a [illegible] young fellow (play[illegible] W[illegible]), to the inevitable happy [illegible] where the criminal [illegible] provides thrills [illegible] everyone.

None other [illegible], usually in the [illegible], takes the part of the [illegible] constable [illegible] and antics in the [illegible] scenes brought forth gales of laughter.

EMPLOYES OF "NARROW GAUGE" TO HOLD DANCE

The 3[illegible] of the [illegible] Relief Association will be held tomorrow night in Crescent Gardens ballroom at Revere Beach, in aid of the sick and disabled members of the association. The committee in charge includes Eugene W. Mitchell, chairman; Alson G. M[illegible], secretary, and [illegible] Larry H[illegible] [illegible] Edward F. Cox [illegible] president of [illegible]. Officials of the "Narrow Gauge" road will be guests at the function.

FIRE DELAYS "L" TRAFFIC ON MASSACHUSETTS AVE.

Motor and trolley traffic in Massachusetts ave. was delayed 15 minutes today while firemen battled a $1500 blaze in the New England School of Sign Writing at 169 Massachusetts ave. The [illegible], according to belief of Deputy Chief Thomas Downey, was caused by a carelessly flipped cigarette.

Coming Events

Mitzi in "The Madcap" will be the attraction at the Shubert starting next Monday.

Holbrook Blinn in "The Play's the Thing" will hold the Wilbur stage for a single week, starting next Monday.

George Arliss in "The Merchant of Venice" is announced for the Plymouth on Monday, May 7.

"Rio Rita," one of Mr. Ziegfeld's quartet of successes, will return to the Colonial on Monday, May 7.

Irene Bordoni in "Paris," a play with songs, will move into the Wilbur on Monday, May 7.

"Fast Company," a new George M. Cohan play, will take the stage at the Tremont on Monday, May 7.

Eva Le Gallienne, in repertoire, will be seen at the Hollis for two weeks, starting Monday, May 21.

Walter Hampden in three plays—"Caponsacchi," "An Enemy of the People" and "Hamlet"—will play an engagement at the Plymouth, starting Monday, May 21.

"ROSE-MARIE" ON SCREEN AT LOEW'S STATE

"Rose-Marie," the familiar story of love in the French Canadian woods which delighted so many when presented as an operetta, has at last reached the silver screen. The film version, produced by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, is having its first Boston showings at Loew's State.

Filmed against the beauty spots of the West, "Rose-Marie," from a photographic standpoint, far surpasses most pictures of this type. Many of the pictorial backgrounds are such places as Yellowstone National Park, Canadian and American Rockies and Las Turas Lake, which is high in the lap of the Santa Monica Mountains in Southern California.

Joan Crawford and James Murray are seen in the featured romantic roles and each is ideally suited to the part. Miss Crawford is seen in the title role. Murray, a screen newcomer rapidly making a name for himself, gives a splendid performance as Jim Kenyon, the youthful sweetheart who is falsely accused of murder.

The supporting cast includes House Peters, Polly Moran, Creighton Hale, Gertrude Astor, Lionel Belmore and others.

At the State the new film is being presented with the full "Rose-Marie" score, written by Rudolph Friml and Herbert Stothart.

On the stage Whitey Kaufman and his Victor recording orchestra [illegible] their first Hub appearance, and were well received yesterday. Johnny Marvin is another of the stage attractions this week.

CHAPLIN'S "CIRCUS" AT EGLESTON THEATER

Charlie Chaplin's latest comedy, "The Circus," is now to be seen at the Egleston Theater in Roxbury.

After two years in the making, Charlie, idol of the masses and the classes [illegible] over the world, has [illegible] what many consider is [illegible] production.

A [illegible] comedy for high brows [illegible] it, which is a subtle way of [illegible] a film entertainment [illegible] unquestionably sounds the [illegible] Chaplin genius.

The [illegible] quality of all the Chaplin [illegible] is their unfailing [illegible] for making nearly everyone [illegible].

'La Tosca' to Be Filmed by Two Companies

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS

LOS ANGELES, April 24—A chance will be given movie patrons this next year to compare Billie Dove and Dolores Del Rio in "La Tosca." Both young women will be starred in screen versions of the opera sung so effectively by Geraldine Farrar.

Miss Dove's "La Tosca" is to be a George Fitzmaurice production, produced by First National in Italy. [illegible] is now preparing the [illegible] which is to be modern in [illegible] at least. The costumes, I have an idea, will remain true to the period.

Edwin Carewe also plans to make his "La Tosca" [illegible] with the [illegible], Miss Del Rio who has occupied so much newspaper space the last few days.

In Hollywood the wagers are about 20 to 80, favoring an early marriage between Carewe and Miss Del Rio. They are seen everywhere together. Miss Del Rio is frankly grateful to Carewe for what he has done in furthering her screen career, and Carewe is openly enthusiastic about his pupil's opportunities in pictures.

NANCY CARROLL is Paramount's 1928 discovery, Jesse L. Lasky told me before he returned to New York. "Keep your eye on her," he said, "for we expect to groom her for stardom." Keeping my eye on Hollywood's prospects is part of my job. So I have been patiently waiting and watching for Carroll developments.

They center around an original story by Herman Mankiewicz, called "The Man I Love," chosen by the optimistic Lasky as Miss Carroll's first starring vehicle.

Richard Arlen is slated to play opposite her, and Bernie Fineman, who so successfully steered Evelyn Brent's screen career, will supervise the production.

Suspect it will go into production as soon as Nancy returns from New York, for John Farrow is writing the continuity and scenario.

NITA NALDI went out of the lives of the movie fans so suddenly it left everyone wondering. They are still inquiring what happened to Nita, the lady with the naughty [illegible]. Instead of [illegible] in Be[illegible] she has [illegible] for Famous Players-Lasky in Germany, and the direction of Leon T[illegible], called "La Femme N[illegible]."

It must have taken, so to speak, for Nita is sailing for Europe to make more pictures in Germany. We have missed Nita. She is the one person who [illegible] with the [illegible] from the West. If [illegible] may be [illegible].

ANTHONY HOPE'S novel, "The Indiscretions of the Duchess," will be modernized into "The Naughty Duchess." I say modernized [illegible] Hope in his book of [illegible] years ago, would not likely be catalogued as sufficiently wicked to merit such a title.

"Naughty" gives it so much more [illegible] Warner, [illegible] starred in this story to be directed by Tom Terriss, should make a Duchess worth looking at.

BEN HECHT, Chicago novelist and erstwhile newspaperman, is due in Hollywood again. Mr. Hecht comes and writes his stuff and then departs for home. He will be accompanied by A. [illegible] Lewis, George Jessel's stage manager. Lewis, while here, will interview Jessel about "Private Jones," his next year's stage play. I suppose eventually it will be filmed. There is every reason to believe that it won't slip through Jessel's fingers.

"I AM just like any other tourist," wrote Billie Dove on a picture postcard. "I love to send my friends postals when I am away from home." Now [illegible] is back looking as if her vacation did her a million dollars worth of good. She is again to be directed by Alexander Korda in her [illegible] picture [illegible] is to go into production very [illegible].

STORY OF LIFE ON SCREEN AT ORPHEUM

"The Crowd," Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's interesting film of human beings, is being shown at Loew's Orpheum this week. King Vidor, who made "The Big Parade," directed [illegible] featured in [illegible] Eleanor Boardman, James Murray [illegible] to the screen [illegible], Lucy Beaumont and others.

It is a real American story containing [illegible] millions of people [illegible] in their [illegible].

Nat C. Haines, popular and [illegible] comedian, tops the list of Loew's vaudeville acts with an [illegible] playlet called "Hello Mama." He is assisted by a large [illegible] cast composed of Vera [illegible], Ileen Gore, Jimmy Callahan, [illegible] Weiss and Mildred G[illegible].

"Marvel" and company offer a [illegible] song and dance revue and [illegible] and Rose, blackface comedians, entertain with their [illegible].

[illegible] are Joe Herbert, "The Jazz Singer," and the Emilons.

TRADER HORN

Adventure and Romance Amid Scenes of Almost Barbaric Splendor

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Trader Horn writing his adventures in darkest Africa over 50 years ago has told how at 18, he was initiated into the sacred order which worshipped a White Goddess, Izaga. Being the first white man so honored. He describes the weird dances of the mysterious Akowa.

CHAPTER 7

THE next day I was busy making firewood contracts, giving orders for large canoes and buying farinea, dried fish, etc. I was greatly assisted by my boy who was very intelligent, honest and really loved me as I did him. I had taught him to speak and read English.

As he was the son of a Camma chief who lived near the sea he was the owner by birth of a salt claim which we found was being worked by his brother, a slave trader. It had always been my custom to say a prayer before going to bed in the evening, he would kneel down also, he always slept near me.

If we were in a dangerous locality he would sleep near me, he would rise on the slightest call, wake my cook and attend to me hand and foot. We naturally discussed Izaga, was she a white woman, she was he answered, because he knew her father who always went to Princes' Island to meet the mail steamer which called about three times a year.

He had come to Cape Lopez when my attendant who was named Renchoro was a boy. His wife, who came with him on a small steamer, was white, he said, but not so white as the daughter, whose name was Nina.

The trader was an Englishman and had died suddenly leaving his store and everything to his wife. He had left three boys and one girl, Nina, who was the youngest.

The oldest boy had sailed away on a schooner and was nearly grown to manhood and along with him went Yousouf Carrala, a Mahommedan slaver and dangerous pirate. This was after his stronghold had been sacked and burned by a British gunboat. A slave-catcher which used to patrol the coast.

The dead English trader's name was T———. The two other boys died, leaving only Nina and her mother, Mrs. T———. Shortly after the death of her husband she had married a famous witch doctor. This witch doctor took little Nina and her mother away. Was it Nina that was the big Izaga that never died?

He said he was not certain, but he had heard his father say it was little Nina. T———'s slaves, ten in number came from Old Calabar and were liberated on the death of Mr. T———. They had since the death of their owner lived on his [illegible] or plantation and as they all had wives and children formed quite a little colony and made quite a good living gathering mangrove bark for tanning leather in the small [illegible]. They were not allowed to make salt as the real owners of the country reserved the right for those who were freeborn only.

Where was Hen T——— buried? As all the white men who died on this part of the coast were buried on an island situated at the [illegible] entrance of the Ogowe River, I told him we would visit this spot as soon as we had finished our business at Angola as I wanted to learn the truth about Nina and her mother. He said the best people to give me all the information were the oldest slaves on the plantation. I found all he said to be correct.

As the old channel of the Ogowe changede every year I had orders to take great care in following the deepest one as there were several entrances or mouths of this river

Victory for Yale
Professor Gene
Tunney Is Smart

Ring Elevation
May Go Too High
New Sport Field

By NICK FLATLEY

YALE CAN NOW HIGH-HAT ALL RIVALS

YALE has leaped into the forefront of the educational parade. Gene Tunney has handed the boys at New Haven the real dope on Shakespeare, so now the Elis can high-hat the boys from Eton and Oxford, while poor old Harvard and Princeton will have nothing left but their private squabbles about signet rings and things like that.

Nick Flatley

Mister Tunney's appearance before a crowd of college boys, with a topic like Will of Avon, gives you the tipoff on his position in the world of swat. Gene has more courage than several lions, and doesn't care what he does, so long as he helps the Tunney cause along.

Once upon a time Tunney was just a fair preliminary fighter. His literature was printed on the sport pages. Had he been questioned, he might have guessed that "Shake" Speer was a pretty good boxing writer, somewhere or other.

But he was a wise, shrewd young man. He had done some little boxing. He knew that he was strong and he was sure that he could keep in better shape than the big boys who were getting all the advertising and all the money. He read about Jack Dempsey's million dollar fights many times more than 12 times, which was his limit on "A Winter's Tale."

Gene decided then and there to go after Mister Dempsey, and after four long and not too brilliant years, he finally had his chance. You know what he did with it. Just before Tunney achieved the crest, he turned highbrow. It was his one opportunity to grab some of the publicity that was being showered favorably and otherwise, on the tough, battering, scowling champion, Dempsey

The boys began to make fun of Tunney, but his name was in the public prints. He kept plugging along, with his boxing and his reading, and look at him now—ring champion and Shakespearean lecturer at Yale.

Gene is the real plodder. Nobody else would have picked "The Winter's Tale" as a starter in Shakespeare. Gene always believed in knocking out the small ones before he chased after big game. Billy Gibson, or one of the various managers, probably hauled the title out of a hat.

GENE PROVES THAT A SHAKESPEAREAN SCHOLAR CAN MAKE MONEY—BUT HOW?

TOO MUCH ELEVATION MAY BE FATAL

MISTER GENE SOTHERN TUNNEY is the greatest insurance the boxing [illegible] has known. He has clamped the snuffer on the reformers and the [illegible] objectors. He has lifted the sport out of the depths and now has it parked so high in the clouds that the rest of the profession doesn't know what it's all about

A heavyweight champion has always been an idol in this country. The wealthy proletariat and the blueblood have always been glad to march in the champ's train, though instinct and training may have directed otherwise. A champion who can swap bon mots, juggle teacups, and quote exotic poetry removes the inhibitions of what is called the classy set. A profession that has a gentleman like Tunney at the top must be right.

Gene is a good fighter, much better than rated by many an expert, but his intellect may overcome his muscles. If he gets too Shakespearean he's likely to demand chargers and spears, and coats of armor, not to mention literary tests and heraldic escutcheons and all that sort of thing

For the fight racket, as the boys call it, cannot be elevated too much. There aren't enough left jabs and right hooks in intelligentsia circles to keep the promoters in funds. Which is what it all amounts to.

TUNNEY IS ALSO THE HEAVY READING CHAMP.

[illegible]

NEW FIELD OF ENDEAVOR FOR ATHLETES

PROFESSOR TUNNEY'S spectacular and brilliant effort opens an entirely new field for the [illegible] of sport. Heretofore they have confined themselves to signing articles and indorsing the checks therefrom. Now they can form a little Chautauqua circuit, and after they memorize their speeches [illegible] quite comfortably

Imagine the furore at Bryn Mawr if Babe Ruth appeared to unfurl a learned dissertation on the psychologic background of the poems of Edna St. Vincent Millay. And what a hit Jawn McGraw will make at Vassar with his soon to be famous monograph on the verb roots of Sanskrit.

How far this new mental urge of the athletes may go transcends all imagination. One of them might even attempt his own speech. Then, of course, the whole works would explode

Just the same, Mister Tunney has attached quite a few thousands to the next gate by this last stunt of his. Smart boy, Gene.

'Twixt Tee and Cup

By BILL GRIMES

Oddly enough, the W. G. A. team match players preferred the cold, wet weather of Monday to the raw wind which blew during their first two rounds. Although Woodland, Weston and Wollaston were all wet and soggy and the weather was wholly unsuitable for golfing, with the exception of Miss Helen Payson and her mother, all of the first team players reported.

Mrs. L. C. Stone of Belmont, who [illegible] will be out of competitive golf for the remainder of the season. Mrs. Stone must submit to another operation. Two years ago, Mrs. Stone was operated on the day that the W. G. A. championships opened at Kernwood.

If the protests which have been heard in these parts can be taken as a criterion, the United States Golf Association is coming in for considerable criticism, for announcing the make-up of the Walker Cup team. There is absolutely no rhyme or reason in picking this team at this date, and the failure to include Jess Guilford did not help matters as far as the U. S. G. A. is concerned.

After a year's absence from competitive golf, Tom McGinn is back. The popular Belmont Spring player will take part in the Boston Four-Ball League matches and will also play in many open and invitation tournaments as he did two years ago. Since his retirement McGinn has put on considerable weight and now tips the scales at 217. After a few mixed foursomes, Tom will be back to normal. That is, as far as his weight is concerned.

As a result of Monday's matches, the three time first team winners have been reduced to Mrs. J. T. Leonard and Mrs. G. P. Buell of Midland, Miss Katherine [illegible] of Southern and Mrs. W. J. [illegible] of Central.

Pres. A. W. Rydstrom of the Metropolitan Four Ball League has everything in readiness for the opening tomorrow. He announces that the Met will dispense with all flag raising ceremonies and at sharp 4 o'clock the battle will be on.

Ex-Braves Pitcher Now an Umpire

BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.

Five new umpires have been added to the staff of the New England Baseball League this season. President Charlie Davidson of the league today made public his umpiring staff as follows:

Gus Dunn, Lynn; Marty Donovan, Salem; Thomas Dunn, Fitchburg; George Tyler, Lowell; William White, Lawrence; Thomas Wingate, Manchester; George Hanry, Lynn and Lloyd Stevenson, New Haven.

Tyler was a former pitching star for the Boston Braves and was a member of the 1914 Braves, who won the World Series from the Athletics in four straight games.

MR. BOSTON

By Jack Conway

"I UNDERSTAND that Jack Slattery of the Braves and Bill Carrigan of the Red Sox are going to give most of their attention from now on to bolstering up their pitching departments," said Mr. Boston today. "The Braves and Sox would be prepared to give battle on even terms with the best of them if they possessed a little more strength in the box.

"A classy infield, a trio of high class outfielders and strength behind the bat are essential qualifications for pennant winning ball clubs, but unless one has two or three first class hurlers the sledding is usually pretty tough.

"Now and then a team like the Yankees comes along and tips over precedent. It bats out victories even when its own pitching staff spots the opposition five or six runs. But clubs like the Yankees are rare exceptions to the general rule.

"The 1914 Braves, who won the National League pennant and the world's championship, had Tyler, James and Rudolph with Strand to fill in when needed

"The 1912 Red Sox had Wood, Bedient, Foster, Collins and Hall. Later the Sox added Ruth, Shore and Leonard to their list of flingers.

"Back in the days of Jimmy Collins, when the Sox beat Pittsburgh in the first world's series, Boston had the great Cy Young, Bill Dinneen and George Winters as its star hurlers.

"MATHEWSON and McGinnity did a great deal to bring National League pennants to the Giants. The old Chicago Cubs had 'Three Fingered' Brown to help out the Tinker to Evers to Chance combination.

"Fielder Jones, when manager of the Chicago White Sox, busted his way to fame with a team of hitless wonders. They could win a ball game if they were able to get two or three runs. This was because fellows like Ed Walsh, Doc White and Nick Altrock usually only allowed about one run a game.

"Altrock always had the Indian sign on the Red Sox. He pitched the first and last game of each series against Boston even when the series was only a three game affair.

"Big Ed Walsh spent most of his time in the bull pen. When he wasn't working the full game, he was getting ready to go to the relief of some other hurler. Jones always believed in yanking a pitcher as soon as he showed any signs of weakening. A couple of hits and a White Sox hurler was on the way to the showers. Jones didn't wait until the other fellows had even scored.

"JONES, of course, was fortunate in having Walsh to call upon. Big Ed was a glutton for work and always showed at his best in a tight place. He was as cold as ice in a pinch. He would shuffle out to the pitchers' box and spend 10 minutes or so stalling around, rubbing the ball in the grass and throwing the old onion around to the different bases.

"This practice is not allowed nowadays. By the time Walsh got ready to pitch the batter was very nervous and would be lucky to hit even a foul.

"When a team has pitching strength, it plays steadier ball. The batters also have more of an incentive to go out and get safe blows. They know that if they can collect three or four runs that they are liable to sew up the old ball game.

"In these days of trick ball parks, where the setting is made perfect for long distance hitters, even hurlers like Wood, Mathewson, Walsh and Brown would have their troubles.

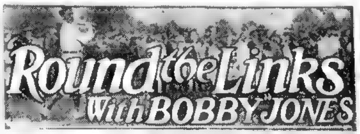
"When Hogan smacked the old apple in the bleachers in the opening game, I was reminded of a good story I heard on Judge Fuchs.

"Hogan was a member of the Braves when it was decided to move the bleachers closer to home plate.

"'Hogan is a long distance hitter and will drop many a home run into the bleachers,' said the judge.

"Hogan was the first to christen the new bleachers with a circuit smash. Unfortunately for the Braves, Hogan is now with the Giants.

"The Yankees intentionally brought in their right field stands so as to pave the way for Ruth homers. All is fair in love and baseball."



Round the Links With BOBBY JONES

By BOBBY JONES

National Amateur, British Open and Southern Open Champion

JUST now at East Lake we are afflicted with greens that leave much to be desired in the way of smooth, true surfaces. We have also at East Lake a few men who putt exceedingly well and very consistently over these rough, uncertain surfaces. To find out how they do it has for some weeks been my desire.

I remember back in my high school days, I was living within the range of a good iron shot from the East Lake course, and on nights when the moon was out, I used to go over to the club and putt with a friend and neighbor on the practice green near the tenth tee.

The moonlight of course revealed the hole and it also made visible the more prominent slopes and undulations, but it kindly left obscured the more subtle slopes and irregularities, worm-casts and the like. In this half revealing light it was a source of wonderment to my friend and me that we invariably putted better than in broad daylight, especially when it came to holding out from distances up to 8 or 10 feet

To my mind there must be something to be learned from that moonlight putting and I believe that the men who putt well on greens good and bad must have schooled themselves to see a putting green as we used to see it in the moonlight.

Let me say here that I do not believe any man can be so accurate in striking a golf ball, or so uncannily precise in his judgment of speed, borrow, roll and all the other things that go to make a perfect putt, that he can propel a golf ball over 10 yards of uneven turf with such unerring certainty that it will find a spot the size of the hole. There are so many factors to be taken into account that the skill required is simply beyond me.

I WONDER how many putts that are holed follow exactly the path laid out for them in the player's mind? I should say that as many of those that go down deviate from that path as follow it.

It appears to me that the good putter is simply the man who can keep coming close—who gets more times within a one-foot radius—and that such a man holes more putts because of the greater number that come close, a greater number more likely will go in.

Working on this idea, it must appear that we should concern ourselves mainly with the more general contours of a slope rather than try to account for every little hop or roll which the ball is likely to take

This does not mean that we should be taking a haphazard shot at the hole, but only that we should determine upon a line upon which we want the ball to start and hit firmly upon that line.

Worrying about rough spots in the green has no effect except to make the stroke indecisive, and I believe that bad putting is due more to the effect which the green has upon the player than to that which it has upon the action of the ball.

T. W. PALMER, of Miami, is one of the best putters I have seen. His theory is that no matter how rough the surface or how bristly the grass there is always a way to hit the ball so that it will run true. It really matters little whether or not he is right or if he can hit the ball in that way so long as he thinks he can.

There is one conception upon which I have always worked with fair success and which might furnish a useful hint to a reader. When putting across a side slope I try to make sure of keeping the ball above the hole so that it will always be falling toward the cup, the object being to make it tumble slowly into the upper side of the hole

If the speed is anywhere near right the putt cannot finish very far away, whereas if the ball slips off below the hole, not only is there no chance for it to go in, but it is likely to be a great distance away when it stops.

TEX RICKARD STOPPED DEMPSEY-WILLS BOUT

New York, April 24 (AP)—A possible bout between Jac[illegible] Dempsey and Harry Wills, negro heavyweight, was blocked [illegible] Tex Rickard, the promoter testified today in the suit of Jac[illegible] Kearns in which Dempsey's former manager seeks to recov[illegible] approximately $700,000 from the boxer.

Rickard identified telegrams he sent [illegible] a fight [illegible] telegram [illegible] from Dempsey [illegible] Rickard would [illegible] Wills and [illegible] offer [illegible]

"Wills fight will be hard to stage in the United States," Rickard's telegram, dated January 11, 1926, read. "Don't let those fellows out there bull you. I had one disastrous experience out there myself. Any man who stages a Wills-Dempsey fight will kill boxing."

"I said 'Yes, I've signed with him and they're to fight in [illegible]'" Rickard testified. "He replied:

"Kearns then produced a contract [illegible] him covering the fight and which he [illegible] signed as Dempsey's manager," Rickard said.

"Did you sign it?" the promoter was asked by counsel.

"Yes, I signed it," answered Rickard. "I thought it was better to have both the signatures and avoid any trouble for myself."

Rickard then said that he favored [illegible] the fight in New York. He added that he offered to let Dempsey [illegible] favor [illegible] the other was a hometown boy.

TUFTS TACKLES YALE TODAY

For the first time in three years a Tufts nine faces Yale at New Haven today with the odds against it.

Last year the Nashmen, aided by the masterful twirling of the Quincy [illegible] prodigy, Stan Robinson, succeeded in snatching a victory from the Eli nine, and two years ago "Monk" Shuman turned the trick very neatly for the Brown and Blue.

Prospects this season, however, are not nearly as rosy, partly because of the tough weather breaks and partly because Ken Nash lacks a capable successor to [illegible] Robinson or Shuman and his veterans are not [illegible] the pill as of old.

With the College diamond season almost [illegible] the Tufts has been able to complete only two of its games, both of which were won by wide margins and yet unimpressively.

The twirling of the Jumbo moundsmen has not been below average, but the sticking of Nash's veteran [illegible] with the exception of Capt. Fred Kennedy, suffers by comparison with that of last year.

Big "Red" Fitzgerald, whose circuit clouts featured more than half the Jumbo encounters last season, has been unable so far to find the [illegible] for anything resembling those mighty [illegible] Ellis, Herrman and Dorenbos also have [illegible] as yet hit their midseason stride.

Nash has taken Smith, Bowker [illegible] and [illegible] with him to New Haven to cover the mound as [illegible] but there is little doubt that the left-hander who turned the [illegible] on Dartmouth last year will get the call.

Advice to Lovelorn

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX.

IT is natural for young folks to go about in couples, even when there is [illegible] a question of [illegible] good companionship. Plenty of HOT WATER for All!

FOR the good scrubbing that youngsters need after hard play—

And for you, too, the refreshing exhilaration, after a strenuous day of work, that only a hot bath can give.

Authorities agree that one of the chief essentials of health is frequent bathing. Gas makes this conveniently possible.

The family is prepared for a bath at any time, because GAS—THE BETTER FUEL—makes hot water instantly available at all hours of the day or night

Final Bid 5H Played by North

THE BIDDING

Although North is practically certain that he could defeat a four Spade contract he considers game at Hearts equally probable and therefore bids five Hearts in preference to doubling.

THE PLAY

Trick 1. In view of the high contract and his partner's strong support East opens the Ace of Spades despite his double tenace in the suit. No loss occurred, since Dummy's King established by the play, could have been established at Declarer's will.

Trick 8. Declarer puts Dummy in to lead Clubs and establish the Jack for game on the hand.

A second Club trick, essential for the contract, could equally well have been made by stripping West of Diamonds at Trick 7. Played in this manner, Declarer would allow West's Queen of Clubs to hold, establishing the Ace-Jack tenace over the King. Declarer reasoned soundly that West must hold the King and Queen of Clubs as the only justification for his second Spade assist.

Mr. Whitehead will answer questions concerning your Bridge problems. Write to him care of this paper, enclosing self-addressed stamped envelope.

THREE-MINUTE TRIPS

By TEMLE MANNING

THE next time you sit down to you dinner table covered with fine white damask, think a moment of the city where this beautiful material originated. For it is a romantic city, fanned in history and story and is, indeed, one of the oldest in the world.

Julian the Apostate called Damascus "The Eye of the East," and it may still be called so, even to this day. It is famed for many things. Here it was that Diocletian established a factory for arms, and manufactured those famonus swords of Damascus steel which were known throughout the world for their fine, keen, elastic blades. The secret of their making was lost when Tamburlane carried off the artisan.

The city is also known for its fruits and flowers. The plums and roses are particularly lovely here, and the famous damask rose, that was brought to England during the reign of Henry the Eighth, is still grown wherever there is a rose garden.

Of course, they still manufacture those exquisite fabrics of cotton and silk known as damasks. But the damaskeen work, which originated here, is not so well known. This is a process by which wood and steel are inlaid with gold and silver, and it is extremely difficult and beautiful.

There is a legend that Mohammed, seeing Damascus from the heights of a nearby mountain, refused to enter the gates of the city, as it seemed to him a veritable Eden and he preferred to reach the other world without even a taste of an earthly paradise.

SAY A GOOD WORD

By LUCY LOWELL

LET'S say that good word, folks! No matter how much you love your family, no matter how well and faithfully you think of your friends, how are they going to be convinced of it unless you tell them?

We Americans are a singularly inarticulate lot when it comes to expressing our feelings. We can talk for hours on any subject under heaven excepting one—personal sentiment—and before that we become awkward, blushing and dumb.

We act as if the fact that we love and appreciate our relatives and friends were a weakness; a thing to be ashamed of and kept out of sight as much as possible.

We go to great pains to hide our kindly feeling under an air of gruffness or cynicism or indifference.

And we tell ourselves it's the American way and that no one expects us to go emoting all over creation.

We say, "They know how we feel all right so why talk about it? Why, say, my wife wouldn't know what to make of it if I went home and told her I loved her."

Wouldn't she, now? Try it once. Just try it and see what she makes of it. Maybe she'll be surprised at first. But watch her eyes light up. Watch happiness glow in her face.

And that friend you prize so. Why not say to him—or her—how much you value friendship? "You're a good pal: a loyal, understanding heart, and life is broader and brighter because you are in it." Why not say something like this to your friend?

And there are many lesser words that loom large to many in the course of daily living.

The word of appreciation to the one who serves, the sincere expression of thanks for the casual favor, the apology for inconvenience caused.

All good words, folks. Let's say them!

A Wife's Meditations

By HELEN ROWLAND

ONE of the most enviable things about a man is his beautiful and sublime serenity.

A woman crosses every bridge 40 times before she gets to it—but a man never even thinks of crossing a bridge until it is about to be washed away.

* * *

A woman has a panic at the sight of the first gray hair, but not until he sees his LAST hair vanishing does a man begin to wonder if he ought to try a hair tonic.

* * *

A woman worries when her throat begins to sag and begins at 30 to ward off a double chin. But not until his chins are tripled and get in his way when he's shaving does a man suspect that he may be losing his boyish beauty.

* * *

A woman begins dieting and banting at the discovery of the first few pounds of superfluous flesh, but not until a man has to let his belt out three or four notches and can no longer get into his college tuxedo does he feel any anxiety about his increased girth or his vanishing waistline.

* * *

A woman worries bitterly at the loss of her first illusion and her first tooth. But not until he has shed his last illusion and parted with his last molar does a man stop to wonder if it is really time for him to give up the love chase and "settle down" and be sensible.

* * *

A woman has doleful visions of becoming a widow every time her husband coughs. But not until his wife has been buried for six months and he finds some other woman trying to annex him does a man wake up to the fact that he IS a widower.

* * *

A woman begins thinking about love and marriage and planning her life long before the first lover arrives on the scene. She has her hope chest filled before there is any "hope" and the wedding decorations all picked out before the man has discovered the color of her eyes.

* * *

But a man never gives marriage a serious thought until he finds himself walking up the aisle to the altar—and then it's too late.

* * *

A woman lies awake nights for weeks before the wedding wondering IF she ought to do it—but a man waits until after the wedding and then lies awake nights wondering WHY he did it.

* * *

"Worrying" is woman's favorite indoor sport, but it is the one thing that a man dodges as long as he can.

* * *

That is why most men have such nice, smooth, jolly faces long after their wives' faces are covered with crow's-feet and the marks of plastic surgery.

OUR legislators are making such simple laws nowadays that anybody can break them.

Fashion Hint

If the shoe fits, try on a smaller pair.

Theatrical Note

Several husbands are now making personal appearances in their own homes.

You're Right

If it weren't for women, there wouldn't be so many married men.

Our Own Vaudeville

Host—So you're a clairvoyant?

Guest—Yes, sir. Show me your linen and I'll tell you where you've stopped.

Ideal Dumbbells

GENUINE PHILLIPS MILK OF MAGNESIA For Troubles due to Acid INDIGESTION ACID STOMACH HEARTBURN HEADACHE GASES-NAUSEA

What many people call indigestion very often means excess acid in the stomach. The stomach nerves have been over-stimulated, and food sours. The corrective is an alkali, which neutralizes acids instantly. And the best alkali known to medical science is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. It has remained the standard with physicians in the 50 years since its invention.

One spoonful of this harmless, tasteless alkali in water will neutralize instantly many times as much acid, and the symptoms disappear at once. You will never use crude methods when once you learn the efficiency of this. Go get a small bottle to try.

Be sure to get the genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia prescribed by physicians for 50 years in correcting excess acids. 25c and 50c a bottle—any drugstore.

"Milk of Magnesia" has been the U. S. Registered Trade Mark of The Charles H. Phillips Chemical Company and its predecessor Charles H. Phillips since 1875.

COPPER PRICES ARE HELD UP

The higher prices of copper are being well maintained. The week continues with a firm tone in the copper market. There is less custom smelter metal seeking buyers at concessions, and leading producers are holding firm at 14¾ cents delivered to Connecticut Valley mills.

Buying for domestic consumption is on a quiet scale. Export business holds up well, and the week started with substantial sales at 14½ cents c. i. f. European ports.

Foreign buyers continue to show an active interest in the market. Stocks are moving out freely for shipment overseas at current levels. European consumers show further inclination to replenish their supplies.

Radio Dialog

BETTER HOMES

In the absence of Anne Bradford, her half hour was conducted through the Houghton & Dutton studio of WEEI this morning by the Somerville Better Homes. May Pillsbury, Women's Page Editor; George Evans, librarian of the Somerville Public Library; and Mary Henleigh Brown, of the Domestic Science Department, Somerville high school, contributed to the program.

OLD RIP ON RADIO

A radio dramatization of Rip Van Winkle will be broadcast in the Soconyland Sketches at 7:30 tonight. The play was first presented one hundred years ago, in Albany, N. Y., May 26, 1828. The late Joseph Jefferson first played the part of the intemperate good-natured Dutchman in London, in 1865. Irving's tale of the man who slept for 20 years and returns home to find everything changed was suggested by an old tale of the Dutch.

STAGE STAR

Elsie Ferguson will appear in The Eveready Hour this evening in a program composed largely of Shakespearian scenes with an additional recitation from Oscar Wilde. Miss Ferguson will recite Wilde's "The Selfish Giant" to the music of Liza Lehmann. Pedro de Cordoba will play Romeo opposite Miss Ferguson in the balcony scene from "Romeo and Juliet."

FIDDLE CHORUS

A chorus of singing violins playing in unison with all the vibrant throbs of the human voice, will introduce a new technique of instrumental performance to radio audiences this evening in the Seiberling broadcast. A group of violinists will broadcast the Wilhelmj violin transcription of "The Prize Song" from Wagner's opera, "Die Meistersinger." The violin chorus will be supported by the orchestra under the direction of Frank Black.

FAR IN THE NIGHT

Stenographers, clerks, office boys and announcers in the staff of the National Broadcasting Co. will be given free rein to indicate their individual and collective conception of the perfect broadcast for an hour, starting at midnight tonight. The implied purpose of the broadcast is to keep the radio audience awake until Paul Whiteman arrives on the scene for his hour's broadcast from 1 a. m. to 2 a. m. The program will issue from WEAF, WJZ, and various stations on the two chains, but will not be heard locally through WEEI or WBZ.

JAZZ KING

Paul Whiteman and his orchestra will broadcast through a number of stations in the National Broadcasting Co.'s two eastern networks from 1 to 2 a. m. tonight, during which "Blue Fantasy," a new symphonic jazz composition by Ferde Grofe, will have its world premiere. This special program was arranged so that the majority of musicians throughout the country would be able to hear what has been heralded as the most ambitious development in modern American music since George Gershwin's "Rhapsody in Blue." The date is the birthday of Mrs. Wilberforce J. Whiteman of Denver, mother of

[illegible]TON CONTEST WINNERS

Winners of the contest conducted last year by the National Federation of Music Clubs have been brought to New York by the National Broadcasting Company to take part in a special program to be broadcast this evening at 9 o'clock.

The young artists include Kathryn Witwer of Chicago, lyric soprano, winner in the female voice class; Hilda Burke of Baltimore, dramatic soprano, co-winner with Miss Witwer of the $1000 prize offered by the National Opera Club of New York for the best operatic voice; James L. Houghton of Somerville, Mass., bass-baritone, winner in the male voice class, and Miss Helen Hallett of Boston, winner in the pianoforte class.

STOCK EXCHANGE SEAT RULING IS AMENDED

Old ruling of New York Stock Exchange that a member must acquit his seat free from all legal debts and liens has been altered. A new so-called subordination agreement will permit debt against seat under certain circumstances. A member may, on purchasing seat, sign agreement to pay a specified sum to another party, using seat as collateral. A copy of contract must be filed with the exchange and with firm to which new member belongs. Revision is understood to have been brought about by tremendous increase in value of memberships on exchange, to help in settling of estates, and will also affect purchase of seats by firms for employes.

ENGINEERS PUBLIC SERVICE TO MEET

Annual meeting of the stockholders of Engineers Public Service Co. will be held on May 21, 1928. The transfer books will not close, but only common stockholders of record at the close of business on April 30 will be entitled to vote at the meeting.

EVENING AMERICAN SPORTS

FOUR BALL LEAGUE OPENING

Five Matches Are Listed for Today; Brae Burn Will Defend Its Title

BOSTON FOUR BALL LEAGUE

TODAY'S MATCHES
Charles River at The Country Club.
Oakley at Commonwealth.
Weston at Woodland.
Belmont Spring at Winchester.
Brae Burn at Wollaston.

By BILL GRIMES

With the opening round of the Boston Four Ball League, which will be played today, the Brae Burn Country Club will start to defend the championship at the Wollaston Golf Club.

As Brae Burn will have its 1927 title winning combination intact, it is favored to again be in the midst of the fight for the pennant. As regards the make up of its team, the Country Club will have a veteran aggregation but will miss Frank C. Newton, the former New England amateur champion.

Due to the acquisition of Phil Finlay, Eddie Murphy and Billy Whitcomb, the Charles River Country Club is the outfit, Brae Burn and The Countrty Club will watch closely. Although the other contestants have strengthened, none measure up to the calibre of Brae Burn, The Country Club or Charles River.

GREAT MATCH CARDED.

The Counttry Club-Charles River match at Clyde Park brings together two of the best teams in the organization and should furnish the keenest competition. The feature of this event will be the match between Rodney W. Brown and Parker W. Whittemore of The Country Club and Phil Finlay and Eddie Murphy of Charles River. Brown and Whittemore are veterans of four-ball play and their experience may have a strong bearing on the outcome of this match. Finlay and Murphy are terrific hitters, the former bearing the reputation of being able to out drive any player in the game, but they both must be hitting their tee shots to consistently outdrive Whittemore and Brown.

The Country Club pair are strong in every department of the game along with being exceptionally steady and teaming cleverly. Although Eddie Murphy played with Charles River three years ago, during the four ball season, this will be Finlay's initial appearance. They have been playing together all spring and have met with fine success.

BRAE BURN THE CHOICE

Brae Burn should have little trouble disposing of Wollaston, even on the Montclair course, and therefore should get off to a good start, while Woodland, if Francis Ouimet and Jesse Guilford put in an appearance, are favored to win over Weston.

Tom McGinn will be back in the lineup for Belmont Spring and although Freddie Wright is lost to the Waverley club, Winchester must be stronger than last season to corral the odd points. Oakley is expected to be stronger and will battle Capt. Clark Hodder's Commonwealth team to the finish.

After vanquishing The Country Club and Brae Burn, the Northern District went down to its first defeat of the season yesterday before the Midland District. Although Midland was nosed out of its match with Central, the newly formed aggregation is far stronger than was predicted.

It is one of the best balanced teams in the association, with its strength well distributed. Mrs. J. T. Leonard and Mrs. G. P. Buell are the big poin winners for Midland, neither having met with a reverse this Spring.

The Brae Burn team is a bitter disappointment, having lost to Midland, Northern and Southern, after starting the season as a favorite. Southern ran roughshod over Brae Burn to the tune of 6 to 3 yesterday, while Central ran up a 7 to 2 win over The Country Club, which was forced to play without Miss Helen Payson, but two of the matches went to the 19th hole, Mrs. Gardiner winning over Mrs. Rowley and Mrs. Carver disposing of Miss Wesson in the extra hole matches.

Midland, Central, Southern and Northern will enter the fourth round tied for first place, each having won two matches and lost one, while The Country Club and Brae Burn are trailing, the former having captured only one match, and the latter having three defeats.

EIGHT MEN SELECTED AT BOWDOIN FOR MEET

Brunswick, Me., April 24—A team of eight men was selected by Coach Jack Magee of the Bowdoin College track team to compete in the Penn relays. They will be Frank Foster, Jr., of Manchester, Mass.; Arthur Seeleye, of Worcester, Mass.; Carl Norris, of Melrose Highlands, Mass.; Gorham Scott, of Oldtown; Disney Foster, of Manchester, Mass., and Foster Yancey, of Dallas, Texas.

From that number two teams will be chosen, one to run in the medley relay Friday afternoon and the other for the one-mile relay Saturday afternoon.

In the latter event, Bowdoin will have as competitors Boston University, Catholic University, Johns Hopkins, Ohio Wesleyan, Savage and St. Johns of Brooklyn. The local college has drawn the pole position for the race.

In addition to the relay men, Coach Magee will take Captain Howard Mostrom of Wareham, Mass., to compete in the dashes and Bernard Lucas of Gardiner to run the hurdle events.

Eagle Players Fear Springfield's Team

By JOHN B. GILLOOLY

Springfield College, seldom in former years a cause of fear among the bigger institutions hereabouts, visits University Heights tomorrow with one of the most powerful nines in this section of the country. And, believe it or not, the small Y. M. C. A. college has Hugh Duffy and his B. C. wallopers greatly worried.

Springfield has been sailing along so smoothly that the Eagle is going to have a hard struggle in chalking up his fourth victory. In fact it wouldn't be one of the season's upsets if Springfield handed B. C. their fourth setback. Hugh Duffy's team has split even in a half dozen games played.

Springfield hasn't won all its games to date. But it has shown enough baseball in the battles played to strike fear into the heart of any college coach in these regions. Springfield's greatest achievement of the season was a win over Dartmouth. Gunnar Holstrom, Green mound ace in the absence of Capt. Van Riper, was badly knocked about by the Springfield lineup.

The following day, Dartmouth hopped into Boston for a morning game and took the Eagles by a 12-9 score.

McNULTY TO PITCH

Hugh McNulty will do the pitching for B. C. tomorrow. McNulty stepped along nicely against Fordham and also did some surprising relief work for Charley Murphy on the following afternoon with Syracuse as the hostiles.

McNulty has been doing fine all season. When he's on the mound B. C. looks like a great team. Shea has not had as much effect, although it is hard to find fault with the work Lefty has been doing. Shea is erratic and hit oftener than McNulty, but he has an uncanny knack of pulling out of some frightful situations.

Bo McMenimen, fighting B. C. leader, will be behind the bat. Freddy is up with the leading batters and his backstopping has been first class to date. Some are inclined to believe that McMenimen is a weak batter. He surely doesn't look like a fence buster when he strides to the plate. Nor when he cuts at the ball either.

But the only way to tell a batter is by looking at his average. And Freddy's is close to the .350 mark. Some batters look good striking out. Three fine lusty swings and a walk back to the bench doesn't mar their standing with the fans although their average hitting is low. The only way to settle the issue is by cold figures which the mathematicians tell us never lie.

STOKINGER GOING WELL

Herb Stokinger is going fine in center field for B. C. He is now in the regular lineup after sitting on the bench for a few games. He's not hitting the ball as well as Weston, O'Day, Gibson or some of the other boys, but he has shown a vast improvement.

Creedon is still out of the lineup and Earl Clinton, a veteran, will be at second base. Clinton played on the varsity all last season and Duffy is lucky to have another second baseman of Clint's ability.

Green Meets Purple

Hanover, N. H., April 24—Harry Heneage, supervisor of Dartmouth athletics, announced that Dartmouth will play the Williams baseball team on the day of the Williams commencement, June 23. The Massachusetts institution does not appear on the regular schedule, which is completed June 18. Members of the team either will remain in Hanover or assemble at Williamstown on the day of the game.

HARVARD LISTS SCHOOL MEET

Harvard's 43d annual outdoor scholastic track and field meet will be held in the Stadium on Saturday, May 5, beginning at 3 o'clock. Twenty-eight schools have already entered and the total is expected to reach 40, according to B. A. Whittam of the Harvard A. A., who is handling the entries.

Harvard intends to give medals to all five place winners in each event. In former years it has been customary to award a gold medal to first place winners, a silver medal to the gatherer of second honors, and a bronze medal to the third man. Fourth and fifth places were rewarded with ribbons.

This year the third and fourth men will receive bronze medals. All trophies for places gained will be of watch-fob size with a crimson "H" in the middle and "Harvard Interscholastics" engraved thereon.

It has been decided, also, to run the 440-yard dash in two heats, the fastest times being given the places. This will help to remove the congestion usually witnessed in this event which seems to attract the largest number of entries.

Paulin Kayoes Duffy in Second

George Paulin of Berlin, N. H., knocked out Tommy Duffy of Revere in the second round of the main bout, scheduled for ten rounds, at the Crescent A. C. boxing show at Casino Hall in Lynn.

Both boys mixed things at a rapid clip, with Duffy using a fast left jab to the face and Paulin doing some heavy hitting at close range. In a fast mixup on the ropes Paulin knocked Duffy through the ropes with a left hook to the jaw, the Revere fighter's head hit the floor, and he arose at the count of five and fell backwards, hitting the floor again, knocking him unconscious.

In the semifinal Frankie Baldi of Lynn stopped Tony Ferris of Lawrence in the second round. Tom Smoot of South Boston beat Carl Russo of Revere in six rounds, and Tony Shucco of Boston won from Joe Dixon of Medford in six rounds.

Award Aggie Letters

Amherst, April 24—Letters have been awarded to the following members of the varsity rifle team at M. A. C.: Capt. Kenneth F. McKittrick of Boston; John B. Zielinski of Holyoke; Wellington W. Kennedy, of Red Bank, N. J.; Taylor M. Mills of Boston, Chesley L. Black of Reading; Paul F. Frese, of Waltham.

LIBERTY INS. BOWLERS ARE BANQUETED

S. Bruce Black, president of the Liberty Mutual Insurance Co., was the guest of honor and distributed the prizes won by members of the Liberty Mutual Club Bowling League during the past season at the annual banquet of the league at the Brunswick Hotel last night. G. F. Graham, head of the club was toastmaster.

The festivities were as hot as the race just finished, as there were only six points separating the first five teams in the league. First place was won by the team captained by Don Akin.

Second place resulted in a tie between teams led by Frank Atkinson and Gordon Pinkham. Individual honors were carried off by R. Daly, with a season's average of 98, and J. Skierski, with a season's average of 97. O. Ahlstrom had the highest single string of 152 and B. J. Bagley scored high three-string total of 353.

After the banquet the members and guests held the last roll-off of the 1928 season. Many prizes were donated for this roll-off by executives of the company and friends of the league.

Frank Atkinson was chairman of the banquet committee and he was assisted by Cornelius Spillane and F. Lester Sprague.

TECH PREPARES FOR TIGERS

The three Technology crews that will race Princeton on Lake Carnegie Saturday had a long row Monday over the upper Charles river. Coach Bill Haines was very pleased with the varsity's showing against Navy, but said that the crew needs more miles under its belt. He does not contemplate any changes in his varsity shell.

Only two more workouts remain before the crews go to Princeton. After the workout on Wednesday, the shells will be shipped to Lake Carnegie, and present plans call for a workout over the course on Thursday afternoon. The varsity is using the Davy swivel-rigged shell. The 150-pound varsity also is using a swivel-rigged boat, but the freshmen are rowing the second shell which came from Oxford last year rigged with thole pins. The junior varsity will not make the Princeton trip.

Pat Manning, Tech rigger, had to work quickly yesterday, as the shells did not arrive from Navy until noon. He had both shells rigged and ready to take the water at 4 o'clock. The runners on Ernie Knight's seat at No. 7 had to be changed, as they were jamming on the slide.

$2,000,000 a Year

Cost of Our City Hospital

Those were interesting facts about Boston City Hospital which Mr. Carl Dreyfus of the board of trustees revealed, a day or two ago, before the hospital alumni association.

The buildings which center around Concord st., Worcester sq., Harrison ave. and Massachusetts ave., together with the people they shelter, make up a sizable community. There are TOWNS of importance which are not more populous.

Patients in bed number 1100.

More patients—1000 of them—come every day to the Out Patient Department.

On the medical and surgical staff there are 130 doctors, while interns number 70.

There are 300 nurses and 800 other employes.

How many Bostonians know that in the past five years a generous city has spent $5,000,000 on City Hospital buildings and equipment? Or that work is beginning on new buildings which will cost $3,000,000 more?

To support this great institution a generous city pays out $2,000,000 annually, for the cost of hospitalization has mounted with the cost of living. Within fifteen or twenty years it has probably jumped more than 200 per cent.

In the modern hospital the opening of one new department is soon followed by the opening of another. Change follows change. THIS hospital was opened in 1864, when abdominal surgery was unusual, there was no organized ambulance service, and the X-ray, radium, insulin and laboratory diagnosis were non-existent.

The time was when the man who wanted the best medical advice and attendance needed a long purse. Today all he needs is to know the way to the hospital.

Their Interesting Majesties of Afghanistan Well Received in England

KING AMANULLAH AND QUEEN SURAYYA VISIT GEORGE AND MARY

These royalties from far off Afghanistan were well and royally received on their visit to London.

The Prince of Wales met them on the boat, dressed in elaborate uniform, with a gigantic hat of bearskin. He managed to keep a straight face under the circumstances.

King George was at the railroad station to meet King Amanullah, and Queen Mary waiting outside in a carriage drawn by hour horses. The Queen sat beside the Afghan Queen, King George sat beside Amanullah, and they drove through the cheering crowds that always gather to applaud the much-beloved royal family.

There was a state visit at Buckingham Palace, then the King and Queen from the distant land went to live at a hotel—as guests of the British Empire—and enjoyed themselves shopping and visiting.

The British do not waste the complete politeness and hospitality bestowed on such royal visitors from far off regions.

First they showed the King a row of a hundred powerful bombing planes and fast pursuit planes, all rising into the air at once.

Besides showing him the flying planes that carry bombs and destruction, and that can wipe out in a twinkling anything in Afghanistan, for instance, they showed the foreign King their great battleships, their regiments, their armored tanks, that creep over the ground carrying heavy guns.

King Amanullah will mention that to all kinds of natives on his return to Afghanistan, and he will add: "DON'T THINK YOU CAN BEAT KING GEORGE. You can't. Anyhow, go and see what he has got before you start anything."

The King and Queen were received at the Guildhall by

VANITY AND RESPECT FOR DEPARTED

By DR. FRANK CRANE

WE have often wanted to say something about extravagant funerals, but have hesitated to do so because it is a rather tender subject with most people. It is a matter of sentiment and a very strong sentiment, at times.

But the Advisory Committee on Burial Survey the other day at New York, after a two-year study of the burial industry, made a report on the basis of which something perhaps might be said without offending anybody.

According to this report, funeral directors are somewhat guilty because of the expensive merchandise and elaborate funerals which they have cajoled the bereft into paying for.

"But culpable as the industry is," says the report, "part of the responsibility for increased costs must be laid at the door of the public which by a demand for elaborate funerals has run up the cost of a burial." Their study clearly indicates that expensive funerals entail most suffering and are most acute in families of limited means who have minor children to support.

What's the good of an expensive funeral, anyhow?

Of course we feel that nothing is too good to show our respect for the departed and we are not inclined to be small and economical in doing them honor. But surely the dead person does not care how much we lavish on his burial. Is not expensive display at a funeral rather to please ourselves than to do honor to the dead?

Death is the universal democracy and when it comes all men are equal. Building expensive monuments and mausoleums in a grave yard is of questionable taste.

Why should there be rivalry and display among the dead? They surely have gone to some place where such things are not appreciated.

The best thing we can do with our property, if we leave any after we are dead, is to care properly for the living, and whatever money we leave should be devoted to those whom we leave behind.

The committee suggests that pastors, probate courts, insurance companies, trust companies, civic and social welware agencies should aid in keeping down funeral costs and this should be with the co-operation of the burial industry itself.

Let us not be parsimonious in doing honor to the dead, but, on the other hand, let us not mistake our own vanity for respect for the departed.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By ELSIE ROBINSON

HAVE you a youngster in the home? Yes? Then read Dr. John B. Watson's new book—"Psychological Care of Infant and Child."

Chances are, if you're a loving mother, that it will make you madder n' hops. But you should read it, just the same, for it's Good Medicine for parents.

Dr. Watson is a BEHAVIORIST. Behaviorists do not believe in instincts or inherited tendencies. They believe that babies are chunks of animate, intelligent matter who may be "conditioned" to act pretty much as you please, provide you start in time and go about it right.

"The behaviorists believe that there is nothing from within to develop," says Dr. Watson. "If you start with a healthy body, the right number of fingers and toes, eyes and the few elementary movements that are present at birth, you do not need anything else in the way of raw material to make a man, be that man a genius, a cultured gentleman, a rowdy or a thug."

Then Dr. Watson proceeds to explain how a baby may be given the right or the wrong slant on life. He tells how a child may be "conditioned" to rage—or fear—likes or dislikes. These emotions are all "home grown," he declares.

"The parents do the emotional planting and the cultivating. At three years of age the child's whole emotional life has been laid down, his emotional disposition set. At that age the parents have already determined for him whether he is to grow into a happy person, wholesome and good-natured, whether he is to be a whining, complaining neurotic, an anger-driven, vindictive, overbearing slave-driver, or one whose every move in life is definitely controlled by fear."

You may not agree with that, but if you're wise you'll study and profit by the chapters which tell how we unconsciously make cowards of our [illegible]

And then we come to "smother love."

Dr. Watson doesn't believe in kissing the baby!

He says that much of our love is simply gratification of our own hunger for affection, and actually does harm to a child. There is no such thing as the "instinctive love" of a child for its parent, he asserts. We build a child's love response and most of our building is bad. "Nest habits" he calls them. Always wanting to be petted and protected—always wanting to have our hurts kissed—that's the result of baby coddling, says Dr. Watson. And that's why so many human beings are a nuisance to themselves and to everyone with whom they come in contact.

ELSIE—
DON'T KISS ME! YOU MIGHT CONDITION ME !!

"Mother love is a dangerous instrument—an instrument which may inflict a never-healing wound, a wound which may make infancy unhappy, adolescence a nightmare, an instrument which may wreck your adult son's or daughter's vocational future and chances for marital happiness."

Ouch! How mad that book is going to make you!

And what a lot of good it is going to do you, if you have the courage to read it.

New York Day by Day

by O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, April 24—The American Kennel Club, which governs such matters, is shortly to ban the custom of cutting the ears of dogs. As the owner of a Boston made deaf by the cruelty, they have my heartiest cheer. Two states are also passing laws against the practice.

The only reason for ear-trimming was the foolish assumption it made a dog look smart. New York is the biggest market in the world for dogs. There are in greater Manhattan more than 2,000 dog shops and private kennels where dogs are sold. The annual dog show here brings visitors from Australia, India and other far-away points.

A dog will bring triple the price in New York it will in, say, Indianapolis. All this in spite of the restrictions that make New York the most difficult city in which to own a canine. Every dog appearing on streets must have a regulation muzzle, a license, and be leashed. And our speak-easies flourish, tra la!

A special squad of plainclothes men is afoot and in automobiles to look for violators, although laws are so frequently violated hundreds pay a fine weekly. On account of space conditions in apartments the lap and sleeve dogs are in the majority.

The wire-haired fox terrier continues the most popular dog in Manhattan. The white Russian wolfhound is supposed to be the real symbol of great wealth. The German police dog, which beecame a fad after the war, is no longer such a favorite.

The highest sum paid for a dog in New York is $9500. A chow brought this price. The average price of a highly-pedigreed dog of popular breed is $800. There are, statisticians report, just three pug dogs left in New York. Asthma wiped them out.

Fifth ave.'s only vacant lot in midtown is a tribute to a family's love for its dogs. The lot adjoins the home, and staggering offers for it have had no effect. When the dogs die, the lot will be sold. Several hotels have special menus for dogs brought by patrons. The best hotels permit small dogs in rooms. And peculiarly enough, it is only in the smartest hotels you see dogs in the lobbies.

STYLE technicians are still squabbling about the vest to be worn with a gentleman's dinner coat. Some say it must be white, and others say black is correct. At one Fifth ave. shop the clerk straddled the issue. "Either is correct," he said. My observation is you see the black vest on Broadway and the white on Park ave."

AN embarrassing moment was witnessed at a symphony concert the other night when the orchestra seemed to die down to a thin note and a gentleman broke into violent applause, thinking it the end of the piece. More amusing still was when the music went suddenly into a crescendo, to see him pretending to brush something or other off his palms.

AND a friend tells of waiting in a well-appointed drawing room of a lady he was desirous of impressing. During his wait, curiosity impelled him to inspect a vase on a table. He slipped his hand into it, and for some unaccountable reason could not get it out. He heard the lady's steps and, holding the imprisoned hand behind him, met her. When she was so insistent he sit down he had to confess his predicament. The vase with difficulty was removed, but the gentleman has not been around since.

THREE New York newspapers now use the euphemistic expression "passing on" instead of "dying."

AN eating place in Lexington ave. takes in much territory. It is called "The Kentucky-Tennessee-Georgia Cafe," and that should goad Alabama.

FOUR out-of-town hotel visitors were removed to New York hospitals last week with cracked ribs, as the result of falls in bathtubs. I've frequently warned 'em out in the brush to keep away from those hellish city contraptions.

OH, THESE WOMEN!

By Leola Allard

THEY have found a male back-seat driver. He is Judson A. Lowenberg of Des Moines, Ia. He is the grand master of the Ancient Order of United Workmen. The wife is past master of the modern order of husband squelchers. In fact, she attempted to divorce him for his impudence, but the judge was a male, and it complicated matters. But the next time he tries to take a back seat he will find it filled with boxes and sweaters and golf shoes.

Chick Fraser of Los Angeles was a golf husband, whose wife spent her married life "waiting dinner." She got a divorce the other day, and Chick proved her case for her by not getting to court. His attorney didn't get there, either. Desertion just naturally becomes a habit to a husband with golf on his mind.

The kind of husband that never deserts, as long as his wife doesn't throw out his rolls of wire and tool chest, is the radio husband. But the trouble with him is you hardly know you have a husband.

Count Keyserling bemoans the fact that women are fast becoming Amazons. These male lecturers forget that it will work out to the great advantage of men, because then they can spend all their time on golf and radio—when they aren't bathing the babies and washing the dishes. The count cries: "The women aren't amorous any more." Fancy an amorous Amazon. Sounds silly, doesn't it?

I saw three women automobiling, with their beaux with their arms entwined around the neck of the drivers. About the only suitable reward for these women is a set of splints and a few bandages.

The Countess de la Rochefoucauld, former American actress, won $18,000 at Monte Carlo and bought a villa the same evening, not even asking for a detailed description of the place. For speed, the American woman! She probably always had wanted a villa, and she was smart enough to know that if she didn't buy it that night Monte Carlo would get the $18,000 next day.

Now she will have the fun of watching the pig come out of the poke.

Life at Monte Carlo may be full of dull sickening thuds, but this wasn't one of them.
